HOMICIDAL PSYCHOSIS. ORIGIN: IMMANUEL KANT

The Massachusetts woman who allegedly stabbed another woman at a New York City Macy's Thursday had been released from a psychiatric hospital just hours before the attack. FOX News reported that 43 year old Kerri Aherne allegedly stabbed a woman–who happened to be employed by the Los Angeles County Sheriff's Department–in the back. Aherne reportedly told law enforcement that 'voices in her head told her she had to kill someone, or she would be killed.' CBS News noted that the LA County Sheriff's Department employee is a 39 year old woman who was in the bathroom changing her ten month old daughter's diaper when she was stabbed. The stabbing victim's husband heard screaming and ran into the restroom, where he helped restrain and subdue Aherne, 'holding her until store security arrived.' CBS News pointed out that Aherne 'was arrested back in 2018 in Massachusetts for posting on Facebook about killing Senator Elizabeth Warren.' The LA County Sheriff's Department employee was taken to the hospital and released the next day. (Alleged Macy's Stabber Was In Psychiatric Hospital Hours Before Attack, Heard Voices In Her Head by AWK Hawkins). Voices in the head, commanding one to kill. Voices in the head, which must be obeyed come what may, without regard to consequences. Voices in the head, categorical imperatives which form the basis of all morality. The rising tide of crime sweeping the West today had a philosophic voice who wrote centuries ago. He is the most influential and discussed philosopher in modern times, and the moral system he championed set into motion a train of subjectivism which crashed in the twentieth century and has filled the present day with civilizational wreckage and sky high casualty figures. Immanuel Kant. "I have therefore found it necessary to deny knowledge in order to make room for faith," proclaims Immanuel Kant in his master work, the Critique Of Pure Reason, as he sets forth a mission of mental destruction whose brazenness is without precedent in history, and has served over the centuries as a clarion call to the psychotics of the world to rise up and storm the ramparts of civilization. To deny knowledge: to deny that when man perceives physical objects he in fact perceives physical objects, and does not perceive nothing at all. To deny knowledge: to deny that when man perceives physical objects he is not blind and he is not blind because he sees and because he has eyes. To deny knowledge: to deny that consciousness is the consciousness of something, and that the notion of consciousness which is conscious of nothing beyond itself is a contradiction in terms. Living in the Age of Enlightenment, Kant hated it, he hated its basis in science, empiricism, common sense and human sanity, and he sought to return the West, the antiClassical, antiApollonian culture which emerged in Europe in 1000 AD, back to its Germanic, Faustian, subjectivist roots. Listen to Faustian Kant deny the possibility of knowledge. Listen to him proceed on the basis of an insane premise and reach an insane conclusion. The insane premise is that all knowledge is derived from a process of witch doctor like, mental navel gazing, performed independently of all experience. The insane conclusion is that all socalled knowledge is therefore only knowledge of internal apriori forms, is knowledge of nothing in reality and is purely subjective, and consciousness creates its own objects: "Hitherto it has been assumed that all our knowledge must conform to objects. But all attempts to extend our knowledge of objects by establishing something in regard to them apriori, by means of ideas independently of all experience, have on this assumption ended in failure. We must therefore find out whether we may not have more success in the tasks of metaphysics if we suppose that objects must conform to our knowledge." (Critique Of Pure Reason). Immanuel Kant. Listen to Kant proclaim that the world of physical objects in space and time is a veil of illusion manufactured by man's perceptual faculty, and reality is itself nonspatial, nontemporal, nonphysical and supernatural: "I understand by the idealism of all appearances the doctrine that they are all together to be regarded as mere representations and not things in themselves, and accordingly that time and space are only subjective forms of perception and not determinations given for themselves or conditions of objects as things in themselves. To this idealism is opposed realism, which regards space and time as something given in themselves, independent of perception." (Critique Of Pure Reason). Immanuel

Kant. On the basis of his denial of the possibility of knowledge, Kant denies the possibility of a morality based on reality. Listen to Kant proclaim that morality consists in obeying the commands of man's supernatural will, which alone is not part of the unreal, natural world. The supernatural will alone is pure, real and good, and man must obey its commands without regard to consequences, either to oneself or to others, and must do his duty or obey these commands just for the sake of doing his duty and obeying his commands, and for no other reason such as flourishing, perfecting himself or doing well in life: "It is impossible to think of anything at all in the world, or indeed even beyond it, that could be considered good without limitation except a good will. Understanding, wit, judgment and the like, whatever such talents of mind may be called, or courage, resolution and perseverance in one's plans, as qualities of temperament, are undoubtedly good and desirable for many purposes, but they can also be extremely evil and harmful if the will which is to make use of these gifts of nature, and whose distinctive constitution is therefore called character, is not good. It is the same with gifts of fortune. Power, riches, honor, even health and that complete well being and satisfaction with one's condition called happiness, produce boldness and thereby often arrogance as well unless a good will is present which corrects the influence of these on the mind and, in so doing, also corrects the whole principle of action and brings it into conformity with universal ends, not to mention that an impartial spectator can take no delight in seeing the uninterrupted prosperity of a being graced with no feature of a pure and good will, so that a good will seems to constitute the indispensable condition even of worthiness to be happy." (Groundwork Of The Metaphysics Of Morals). Immanuel Kant. Listen to Kant proclaim that morality consists on obeying the commands of the will without regard to whether they produce evil effects, bear evil fruit or add evil things to the world. Morality consists in striving with all one's effort and commitment to implement the commands of will though the monsters of terror and injustice be unleashed: "A good will is not good because of what it effects or accomplishes, because of its fitness to attain some proposed end, but only because of its volition, that is, it is good in itself and, regarded for itself, is to be valued incomparably higher than all that could merely be brought about by it in favor of some inclination and indeed, if you will, of the sum of all inclinations. Even if, by a special disfavor of fortune or by the niggardly provision of a stepmotherly nature, this will should wholly lack the capacity to carry out its purpose-if with its greatest efforts it should yet achieve nothing and only the good will were left (not, of course, as a mere wish but as the summoning of all means insofar as they are in our control) then, like a jewel, it would still shine by itself, as something that has its full worth in itself. Usefulness or fruitlessness can neither add anything to this worth nor take anything away from it. Its usefulness would be, as it were, only the setting to enable us to handle it more conveniently in ordinary commerce or to attract to it the attention of those who are not yet expert enough, but not to recommend it to experts or to determine its worth." (Groundwork Of The Metaphysics Of Morals). Immanuel Kant. Listen to Kant proclaim that morality consists in obedience to universal laws, defined as laws which must be obeyed in all situations and circumstances, without regard to consequences of any kind: "So act that the law of your action can become a universal law." Immanuel Kant. Listen to Kant proclaim that morality consists in doing one's duty which is obeying one's will, without thought of achieving external good uses or purposes, or possessing desires or inclinations to do good things in the world, or realizing spiritual benefits, such as rationally flourishing by being honest and not acquiring unearned wealth: "I here pass over all actions that are already recognized as contrary to duty, even though they may be useful for this or that purpose; for in their case the question whether they might have been done from duty never arises, since they even conflict with it. I also set aside actions that are really in conformity with duty but to which human beings have no inclination immediately and which they still perform because they are impelled to do so through another inclination. For in this case it is easy to distinguish whether an action in conformity with duty is done from duty or from a self seeking purpose. It is much more difficult to note this distinction when an action conforms with duty and the subject has, besides, an immediate inclination to it. For example, it certainly conforms with duty that a shopkeeper not overcharge an inexperienced customer, and where there is a good deal of trade a prudent merchant does not overcharge but keeps a fixed general price for everyone, so that a child can buy from him as well as everyone else. People are thus served honestly; but this is not nearly enough for us to believe that the merchant acted in this way from duty and basic principles of honesty; his advantage required it ; it cannot be assumed here that he had, besides, an immediate inclination toward his customers, so as from love, as it were, to give no one preference over another in the matter of price. Thus the action was done neither from duty nor from immediate inclination but merely for purposes of self interest." (Groundwork Of The Metaphysics Of Morals). Immanuel Kant. Common sense and human sanity answer Kant's morality of the categorical imperative and doing one's duty for duty's sake. It affirms that all moral laws have exceptions based on good reasons or rational warrants. It affirms that one should always be honest, except if one's honesty leads to the injustice of innocent people suffering, either oneself or others. It affirms that one should always keep one's promises, except if one's promise keeping leads to the injustice of innocent people suffering, either oneself or others. It affirms that one should always obey orders issued by one's superiors in an organization, except if one's obedience leads to the injustice of innocent people suffering, either oneself or others. It affirms that a morality separated from consequences is a contradiction, for it sanctions the production of immoral consequences, is a morality with morality, and is a morality made by and for psychopaths. Mass shootings. Sirens wailing. Streets submerged in rivers of blood and littered with body parts. Killings, injuries, grievous bodily harm and hospital emergency wards filled to overflowing. Obeying the commands of their will, their voices within, worshiping at the altars of their categorical imperatives and sacrificing morality and goodness on it, today's rising criminal populations represent the end of the line of the Kantian philosophic train. They have taken deep drafts of the Kantian morality of the will and the categorical imperative. They are the living dead, Kantian zombies and robots, monsters programmed to kill, the final, consistent, terrifying expressions of a formal academic doctrine called deontologism. They are citizens of the late modern age and are ringing down the curtain on civilization.

HIGH SCHOOL OF HATE IN SAN JOSE

We are bringing talented youngsters, the children of the broad mass of our population. Workers' sons, farmers' sons, whose parents could never afford to put their children through higher education. Later on, they will join the Party, they will attend the Castle Order, they will occupy the highest positions. We have a goal which may seem fantastic. We envisage a state in which each post will be held by the ablest son of our people, regardless of where he comes from. A state in which birth means nothing, but performance and ability mean everything. (Education In Nazi Germany by Lisa Pine). These were the Adolf Hitler Schools, described by Germany's fuhrer, and their aim was to indoctrine young people in an ideology of hate. Run by the SS, the Third Reich's premier paramilitary organization, these schools focused on creating religious fervor among their students in place of academic prowess, and mass producing indoctrinated young warriors ready to kill and destroy. Eighty years after the National Socialist school system was dissolved in the smoking ruins of Hitler's Germany, its ideas have found new actors to promote them, new places in which to propagate and new victims to program. One such place of darkness is located 9000 kilometers from Germany, located in a bright, sunny state in the former leader of the free world, and is among the leading high schools of hate in the nation. In the twenty first century, in San Jose California, in the United States of America, Branham High School is expressing, exemplifying and amplifying Jew hate and seeking to revive the Third Reich under new management. The new management, the new leaders of antisemitism in the West, the heirs and successors of Hitler's national socialists, is an alliance of Marxists and Muslims united in their hatred of freedom, liberalism and the Enlightenment, and hatred of Jews held to represent these ideas. This Soviet Star-Red Crescent alliance has launched a global war against Jews and is seeking to restart Hitler's gas chambers, and continue where the Third Reich left off. Branham High School Today. Look at Branham High School today and see Marxists and Muslims in charge, see them take a school, given the California Distinguished School award in the 2006-2007 school year, and render it unrecognizable. See them change the school's colors, navy blue, Columbia blue and white, to Marxist-Muslim deep blood red, and change the school's mascot, the Bruin, to an amalgam of the hammer and sickle, the swastika and the Red Crescent, spinning round and spitting out violence. Branham High School Today. Look at Branham High School today and see teachers form human swastikas with students and fill civilized people with feelings of revulsion. See teachers quote from their German fuhrer and condemn Jews as rulers of international finance capital which robs the working class and produces no wealth, and see them, Hitler style, threaten to annihilate Jews. See teachers fantasize about concentration camps, gas chambers and final solutions against Jews. See teachers transform the school into a national socialist Reichstag ablaze with the fires of hate and fanaticism. See teachers use school property to advocate violence and lawlessness against Jews. See teachers disgrace an admired, respected, tolerant, all American high school with the poison of Jew hate. See teachers deprive Jewish students of their rights, freedoms and dignity, and harass and assault them without surcease. See teachers transform a school beloved for its wholesome, holiday toy drives, student concerts and sporting events into a sewer of Marxist-Muslim agitation which decent people condemn. See Marxist-Muslim pseudorabbis wear Palestinian flags, deface the Israeli flag with a Muslim red cross, and condemn zionism for its Western liberal values. See teachers peddle Jew hate in antiliberal, antiEnlightenment ethnic studies programs. See teachers violate the state's education code and preach hate and discrimination against Jews. See teachers organize community circles igniting rings of fire around Jewish students. See teachers condemn Judaism and zionism for defending the West and opposing Arab terror and dictatorships in the Middle East. See teachers condemn Israel as a Western capitalist oppressor nation dehumanizing the Muslim, Palestinian proletariat, and depriving them of their rights, freedoms and independence. See teachers give biased, hate charged lessons supporting Hamas terror attacks on Israel, and advocating the transformation of Israel into Palestine and the launching of a second Holocaust: "In a disgusting display of how antisemitism has filtered from our universities down to our K-12 schools, a group of students from Branham High School in San Jose, California were revealed to have posed for a photo shoot using their bodies to construct a ‘human swastika’ on the school football field. The students then posted the image to social media alongside a quote from nazi leader Adolf Hitler. The photo is not subtle. It features eight students, who all appear to be male, lying on the grass of the football field. Four of their bodies are used to form the inner core of the ‘crooked cross’ while the remaining four students form the outer bent arms of the swastika. Branham High’s mascot, a bruin bear, painted in blue and white on the grass of the football field, is clearly visible just beyond the hateful symbol. It seems obvious that a good deal of forethought and planning went into executing the antisemitic stunt. The photo was then shared to Instagram with the following quote from Adolf Hitler: 'I want to be a prophet again today. If international financial Jews inside and outside Europe were to succeed in plunging nations into a world war once again, the result will not be Bolshevization of the earth and thus a victory for Judaism, but the annihilation of the Jewish race in Europe. The world may laugh at this statement; many laughed at my words back then. But time will show that there is more truth to this prophecy than today’s adversaries can admit. Nations will rise against those who push them into conflict, chaos and destruction.' The quote is taken from Hitler’s January 1939 speech before the German Reichstag in which he addressed the 'Jewish Question' and attempted to lay blame for the coming world war on the Jewish people even as Germany made plans to invade Poland later that same year. The Simon Weisenthal Center labeled this particular Hitler speech 'one of his most infamous addresses, in which he threatened the annihilation of the Jewish race in Europe'—a promise that he later attempted to fulfil through the ‘final solution’ of concentration camps and gas chambers. Branham High school administrators were first notified of the photo through an anonymous tip line on December 3, and began investigating its origins. The Instagram post and the account which had shared it were taken down two days later. 'Our message to the community is clear: this was a disturbing and unacceptable act of antisemitism. Actions that target, demean, or threaten Jewish students have no place at Branham,' commented school principal Beth Silbergeld. 'Many in our community were rightly appalled by the image. Personally, I am horrified by this act. Professionally, I am confident and hopeful that our school community can learn from this moment and emerge stronger and more united.' While refusing to identify the students involved or comment on specific disciplinary procedures, Principal Silbergeld promised 'justice.' 'We are responding in accordance with the education code and our district's commitment to restorative justice,' she said in a statement. 'The students who were involved are committed to taking accountability for the harm that was done.' While the Branham High administration appears to be saying and doing all the right things in response to this outrageous and defiant act of Jew hatred on school property, one must question how such casual and gleeful antisemitism found its way into a prestigious Silicon Valley high school. A casual perusal of the Branham High Instagran page gives the impression of an all American multicultural experience, with posts highlighting holiday toy drives, student concerts, and sporting events. But lurking beneath this polished veneer, a disgusting well of Jew hatred has been brewing. This past April, the California Department of Education concluded that two ethnic studies teachers at Branham High violated the state's education code and discriminated against Jewish students. In one class, the ethnic studies teacher (described as 'Teacher A' in the Department of Education's report) led a 'community circle' during which they showed students an extremely biased video featuring Rabbi Yisroel Dovid Weiss who 'gives his explanation of the difference between Judaism and zionism and is seen wearing a Palestinian flag that says, 'A Jew is not a zionist' and below the Palestinian flag is an Israeli flag with a red cross over the Star of David.' Students in this same class were then treated to an electronic slide show which, among other things, quoted radical philosopher Paulo Freire, author of Pedagogy of the Oppressed, who wrote: 'But almost always, during the initial stage of the struggle, the oppressed, instead of striving for liberation, tend themselves to become oppressors, or 'suboppressors.' The very structure of their thought has been conditioned by the contradictions of the concrete, existential situation by which they were shaped. Their ideal is to be [human]; but for them, to be [human] is to be oppressors. This is their model of humanity. This phenomenon derives from the fact that the oppressed, at a certain moment of their existential experience, adopt an attitude of 'adhesion' to the oppressor.' Students were shown this quote and then asked, 'How can Paulo Freire's theoretical approach to oppressors/oppressed, humanization and dehumanization help us understand what is going on between Israel and Palestine?' The 'correct' answer demanded by the biased lesson is obvious. The Jews, because they suffered oppression in the Holocaust, have now become 'suboppressors' of the Palestinians and are therefore at fault in the conflict in Gaza." (San Jose Students Form 'Human Swastika' On School Football Field by Sara Dogan). Branham High School Today. Students: Be the Fuhrer's Propagandists! Thus spoke a poster appearing in schools throughout Hitler's Germany, seeking to recruit students to the cause of national socialism, self sacrifice, totalitarian government and Jew hatred. At Branham High School in San Jose today, student recruitment by the new national socialists in charge is in high gear. They march under the flags of Marxism and Islam but the Jew hate remains the same, as does the plan to overthrow liberal democracy.

GEORGE SOROS'S RED TREASURY

In their new book Venona: Decoding Soviet Espionage in America, Harvey Klehr and John Haynes argue that of some fifty Americans known to have spied for Stalin (many more have never been identified), Harry Dexter White was probably the most important agent. The Venona intercepts revealed that at the 1945 conference in San Francisco founding the United Nations, White met with a Soviet KGB officer and informed him of the US negotiating position on a number of issues. (White's KGB code name was at various times Lawyer, Richard, and Reed). Another KGB message noted that White was thinking of resigning his high Treasury post and entering the private sector because he needed more income to pay one of his daughter's college tuition. White was regarded as so important to the Kremlin that his handlers proposed to pay the tuition so White could remain at Treasury. (Guilty As Charged by Arnold Beichman). Harry Dexter White. Senior American Treasury Department official who helped to establish the postwar economic order. He dominated the 1944 Bretton Woods Conference, a gathering of the forty four Allied nations in Bretton Woods, New Hamphire, which established the World Bank and the International Monetary Fund. Harry Dexter White. Soviet spy and agent of influence, who transmitted classified documents to Soviet agents, and sought to provoke an American war with Japan in order to tie up Japanese power and prevent a Japanese attack on the Soviet Eastern Front. In 1948, after evidence began mounting that he was a communist spy and agent of influence, and having been exposed as one by Soviet handler Elizabeth Bentley, he suffered several heart attacks and died. Harry Dexter White reappeared in the late twentieth century and has been active ever since. He was replicated in the person of an American-Hungarian investor, hedge fund manager and philanthopist. This person is worth over seven billion dollars and has donated over thirty two billion dollars to his Open Society Foundations in support of Marxist causes. First known as "The Man Who Broke The Bank Of England", and earning thereby over one billion dollars in profit, and described by Forbes magazine as "the world's most generous giver", George Soros has continued where Harry Dexter White left off, and for over a half a century has served as the financier for the Harry Dexter Whites of the world, supporting Marxist causes by bankrolling them by the billions. George Soros. Look at George Soros and see a gangster bankroll Marxist violence. See a billionaire control a global network of organizations campaigning for Marxist revolution. See a billionaire left wing activist bankroll efforts to establish closed Marxist societies through his Open Society Foundations. See him bankroll Marxist-Muslim organizations promoting Palestinian terror: Jewish Voice for Peace, Adelaide Justice Project, IfNotNow, Westpac Foundations and Students for Justice in Palestine. See him bankroll Marxist rights and antiprison organizations: Center for Constitutional Rights and the Mass Liberation Project. See him bankroll the Marxist Democrat Party and antiTrump organization, The Indivisible Project, which launched violent attacks on Elon Musk's Tesla dealerships in protest against Musk's DOGE efforts to reduce fraud and waste in the federal government. See him bankroll violent attacks on police training facilities. See him bankroll Marxist criminal organizations. See him bankroll Marxist rackets and mafias. See him bankroll dark money networks funding Marxist policies and programs and seeking to rig elections in favor of the Democrat Party. See him bankroll Marxist riots staged against Donald Trump and Immigration and Customs Enforcement. See him bankroll the Marxist Community Change Action organization, advocating race politics, black power, socialist redistribution, unchecked migration, the abolition of borders, the abolition of prisons and the abolition of the police. See him bankroll the Fair Immigration Reform Movement, advocating citizenship for illegal migrants, enemy aliens, members of drug gangs, foreign criminals and Muslim terrorists, and training children how to throw bombs, smash windows, riot down streets and burn down buildings: "Is George Soros a racketeer? That's the subject of the latest episode of the The Drill Down podcast, with Peter Schweizer and Eric Eggers of the Government Accountability Institute. Soros, the billionaire currency speculator who in 1992 netted $1 billion by shorting the British pound and bringing the Bank of England to its knees, controls a large network of left wing activist organizations from under the umbrella of his Open Society Foundations. 'The nonprofit Tides Foundation has given over $22 million to different causes in this area,' Schweizer says. 'Tides, of course, has received money from Soros and has worked at some level with his organizations. They gave $650,000 to the Jewish Voice for Peace, $710,000 to the Adelaide Justice Project, $86,000 to If Not Now, $38,000 to the Center for Constitutional Rights, $600,000 to the Mass Liberation Project, $132,000 to Westpac Foundations, and that includes Students for Justice in Palestine.' 'Now, some of these groups are not engaged in violent protests, but some are,' he says. He goes on to mention groups that violently protested construction of a police training facility in Georgia, and another group, called The Indivisible Project, that was reportedly involved in funding the violent attacks on Tesla dealerships as a protest against Elon Musk's DOGE efforts. Days ago, President Donald Trump threatened Soros and his son, Alex, with prosecution under the Racketeer Influenced and Corrupt Organizations (RICO) Act, a 1970 law providing for extended criminal penalties against participants in ongoing criminal organizations. The law was meant to be a weapon for prosecutors against the Mafia, but it has been used in other contexts as well. Peter Schweizer highlights recent research by the Government Accountability Institute that explains the deep connections between Soros, fellow billionaire Bill Gates, and a dark money funding network advised and given operational and administrative support by Arabella Advisors. Funds that Arabella Advisors advises (eg the New Venture Fund and the Sixteen Thirty Fund) have given money to various left wing groups that have been tied to the antiICE riots in Los Angeles and the No Kings protests this summer in several cities. 'It's not illegal for Soros, or Elon Musk, to make contributions to political causes', Schweizer explains. As far as funding groups that incite violence, however, 'you don't have to prove that the head of the [funding] entity knew that they were going to engage in criminal activity. All you have to show is they should have known. So, if I as a funder said, 'you know what, I'm going to fund this group,' and I know they have a history of violent protests, and I fund them anyway, even if I never directed or was involved in making the decision to engage in violent protest, I could still be charged under RICO.' Soros gives money to Arabella managed funds. Soros, Tides and funds advised by Arabella Advisors have provided at least $5 million to two left wing nonprofits involved with protests that turned violent against immigration law enforcement in Los Angeles, according to recent financial disclosures available. One of those groups, Community Change Action, supported the LA protests and provided protest tips in Spanish. Its brainchild, the Fair Immigration Reform Movement, has trained children how to aggressively protest." (Schweizer: Is George Soros A Racketeer?, Breitbart News, September 3, 2025). George Soros. Look at George Soros and see him bankroll the Marxist magazine The Nation and its campaign condemning supporters of conservatives, libertarians and supporters of Donald Trump, such as Turning Point founder Charlie Kirk, as racists, homophobes, misogynists, national socialists and students of Joseph Goebbels. See him bankroll The Nation and its transgenderist activism proclaiming, in defiance of science, that human sex determination is unrelated to biological reality, unrelated to the DNA present in every human cell, and sex can be changed at will: "The president of a left wing magazine that tied slain conservative icon Charlie Kirk to nazis with false information denied Vice President JD Vance's accurate claims that George Soros funds the outlet. Vance's comments about radical left wing billionaire financier George Soros funding The Nation follows its publication of a column by former Gawker editor Elizabeth Spiers comparing the slain Turning Point USA founder to nazi propagandist Joseph Goebbles and labeling Kirk 'an unrepentant racist, transphobe, homophobe, and misogynist.' As Breitbart News reported, the latter name-calling appeared in the lead paragraph only of the 1000 word essay under the headline: Charlie Kirk's Legacy Deserves No Mourning. The publication is well funded by Soros to amplify radical left wing propaganda, Vance said Monday. 'The Nation isn't a fringe blog,' Vance said while guest hosting The Charlie Kirk Show. 'It's a well funded, well respected magazine whose publishing history goes back to the American Civil War. George Soros's Open Society Foundation funds this magazine.' The president of The Nation quickly disputed Vance's claim. 'I'm not sure where he's getting his information, but JD Vance is lying about The Nation magazine,' Bhaskar Sunkara, who identifies as a 'democratic socialist' in his profile, posted to X Monday. Despite Sunkara's denial, the outlet has received funding running into seven figures from Soros. Media Research Center's NewsBusters reports: ;'Up until 2019, The Nation was directly affiliated with the nonprofit media outfit The Nation Institute, which had in fact received at least 1.349 million dollars from Soros's organizations between 2004 and 2019, according to Foundation Directory Online data. In January 2019, it was announced that The Nation Institute was officially rebranding to become the Type Media Center to expand beyond its connections to the magazine." (Left Wing Magazine Calling Charlie Kirk 'Racist' Denies Soros Ties Exposed By JD Vance by Bradley Jaye). George Soros. During World War II and into the Cold War, the Soviet Union had a listening and propaganda device running in the United States Treasury Department. Its name was Harry Dexter White. Driven by passion and fervor for the cause of Marxism, White and his family were supported by the Soviets, who paid for his daughter's college tuition. His successor, Marxist billionaire treasurer George Soros, has flooded the planet with funds for world upheaval and revolution.

GLOBAL CAPITALISM UNDER ATTACK

It is composed of at least three shooters, who are commanded to fire simultaneously. To avoid disfigurement due to multiple shots to the head, the shooters are commanded to aim at the heart, and are guided by a bullseye. The prisoner is blindfolded, restrained and shot at dawn. This is execution by firing squad, and it has a long history, reaching back centuries, beginning in armies and wars. In the twenty first century, the greatest legacy of the Enlightenment is being destroyed by two shooters firing simultaneously. It is being executed by the people's court of mass politics, and the execution is happening not at first light but at the sunset of civilization, and is blasting out the final lines of the story of the West. In the twenty first century, global capitalism, the worldwide exchange of goods, services and capital, the system of worldwide market forces and pursuit of private profit, the system of worldwide human freedom and human flourishing, is under attack by two movements representing two versions of Marxism, and the prisoner is not blindfolded but sees the bullets speeding toward it, got the bullets speeding on their way, and has rejected all efforts to save itself. These two versions of the number religion of our time, the greatest galvanizer of human bacteria after Christianity and Islam, are the original nineteenth century version, and a variant which developed in the twentieth century. The original version of Marxism rejects individual rights in favor of class socialism and class war, while the later version, called fascism or national socialism, rejects individual rights in favor of race socialism and race war. These two versions are officially opposed to each other, and the first indeed condemns the second as regressive and reactionary while proclaiming itself to be progressive, but they are in fact brother doctrines united by a hatred of the Enlightenment ideas of science, empiricism, reason and freedom which, under the aegis of the British Empire, liberated distant, savage regions of the world in the nineteenth century. Both doctrines condemn the Enlightenment ideas of human universalism and essentialism, viewing mankind through the lens of groups and condemning rival groups as subhuman, and advocating their extermination. Both doctrines advocate statism, the system in which the state exercises substantial control over the individual, and differ only in respect to the specific character of the state, whether it exercises power on behalf of a class or a race, and whether its rules and regimentation are imposed on behalf of an international proletariat, or on behalf of an international race or a particular national or ethnic group. In the twenty first century, these two doctrines are ascendant over global capitalism, and their rifles are being endlessly reloaded by the masses, and are pulverizing it and hurling it into the dustbin of history. Marxism. Look at Marxists today and see the masses cheer them on when they proclaim that a progressive society is a communist totalitarian society, established democratically by majority vote. A progressive society abolishes private property, private enterprise and has seized the means of production. A progressive society hates Jews and Israel because they represent the capitalist system, and is a virus house of militant antisemitism and antizionism whose comrades seek to restart Hitler's gas chambers. A progressive society is a Students for Justice in Palestine movement which supports Palestinian terror attacks on Israel. A progressive society is a Boycott, Disinvestment and Sanctions movement which targets Israel for economic isolation, ostracism and total destruction. A progressive society is a radical society and a socialist society which has eliminated the problem of capitalism by teaching people that human freedom brings human slavery. A progressive society is a religious society which has smashed human reason, constitutional government and respect for the rights of others with the sledgehammers of communist and antisemitic ideologies, and has morally and fiscally bankrupted the nation: "A 2021 video of a virtual Youth Democratic Socialists of America meeting featuring Zohran Mamdani has recently resurfaced, revealing that despite his previous denials, the New York City mayoral nominee does, in fact, hold views that align with a universally accepted definition of communism. In the video, an interminably smiling Mamdani—oddly dressed in a tight, green spider web like sweater—spoke to what appeared to be college students submitting questions to him about how to succeed as a true socialist in the DSA. He repeatedly distanced himself from even mainstream DSA Socialists, strongly implying that they were not real ones and insisting that the true way to DSA's success would come from embracing not progressives but the idea of socialism itself. At one point, Mamdani went so far as to state that 'seizing the means of production' was the 'end goal,' evoking Karl Marx and Vladimir Lenin, both of whom famously spoke of socialism being merely a transitional phase to be used in achieving the true end goal of communism. In Marx's Critique of the Gotha Programme (1875), he explicitly described socialism as a transitional stage (the 'lower phase') of communism, when the state controls the means of production, eventually leading to a communist society (the 'higher phase'). Mamdani casually refers to his fellow Socialists as 'comrades' and boasts of numerous antisemitic affiliations and promises. He admits to his affiliation with the militant and virulent antizionist hate group Students for Justice in Palestine (SJP). The often violent or harassing group has repeatedly been banned or suspended from at least a dozen college campuses in the United States. What he doesn't reveal in the damning video is the fact that he was not merely a supporter of SJP but a cofounder of the Students for Justice in Palestine's chapter at Bowdoin College in Maine. Just as concerning for the Jewish people of New York, Mamdani promises in the clip not just that he will work to revoke the city's antiBDS executive order, but actively campaign to push active boycott policies into place. He brags about his work in pushing the BDS movement, which is widely viewed as antisemitic. The video, in which Mamdani explicitly claims that capitalism is the problem in the United States, undermines claims made by Mamdani in a Meet the Press interview on June 29, where he denied being a communist and stated that he identifies as a Democratic Socialist. The video exposes Mamdani as more radical than many worried New York voters had already thought. In it, he calls his own policies 'radical' but insists that they must be pushed and that adherence to a purely Socialist ideology must rise above the temptation for DSA candidates to remain in power. Rather, he expressed confidence that, in time, these ideals will prevail and be embraced by the general public. I would encourage readers to watch the entire 44 minute video. It is simply indisputable that many of the policies and beliefs he espoused, and many of the actions he has said that he would take in the video, are alarmingly tied to communist and antisemitic ideologies. In a June 23 editorial, the Chicago Tribune cautioned New York voters not to elect Mamdani, explaining that Mamdani was 'inarguably more radical' than Democratic Socialist Chicago Mayor Brandon Johnson, who has caused tremendous damage to that city and a high level of 'dysfunction, driven by fiscal missteps and political inexperience'. " (Video Exposes Mamdani As More Radical Than Thought by John Lax). Fascism. Look at fascists today and see the masses cheer them on when they proclaim that individual existence is an illusion and the primary reality is national identity, tradition, heritage and roots. Society must reject both liberal democracy and Marxist collectivism, and embrace another form of collectivism called race collectivism or national socialism. The only culture worth defending and deserving to survive is one which rejects both the liberal concern for individual rights and the Marxist concern for class rights, and adopts the fascist concern with race rights and national sovereignty. Society must be a mirror image of Marxism with only the flags reversed from class war to race war. A legitimate society is a New Right society which rejects both capitalism and communism, and gives cultural hegemony to an international white power movement. Society must reject both global capitalism and global Marxism and adopt a neoMarxist doctrine of global racism. Society must be a bulwark of resistance against both liberal freedom and Marxist enslavement to the proletariat, and must adopt the fascist system of enslavement to the race. Society must reject both liberalism and Marxism because they ignore racial, national and ethnic differences existing between people, and must modify Marxism and become national socialist. Society must reject Enlightenment universalism, which affirms the existence of universal truth, morality and human rights, and worship at the altars of the racial, the national and the particular, and become an engine of extermination of the enemies of the race: "In the leafy streets of Paris' Latin Quarter, where the Seine in the sun reflects the ancient buildings, a small bookshop once stood as a defiant sentinel. But La Nouvelle Librairie, at 11 Medicis Street, was no mere vendor of texts. It was a sanctuary for intellectual refugees—a place where ideas of tradition, identity, and heritage were debated, celebrated, cherished. Founded in July 2018 by the journalist Francois Bousquet—editor of the dazzling journal Éléments—the bookshop shone like a beacon for six years. In a city that prides itself on ideas—yet recoils from anyone who challenges its liberal [Marxist] left, progressive orthodoxies—it became, to its devotees, a shrine of free, heterodox thought; to its foes, a provocation. Both glimpsed a fragment of truth. Bousquet saw publishing as a metapolitical act, drawing inspiration from the New Right's adaptation of Antonio Gramsci's concept of cultural hegemony. The shop stood as a challenge to the homogenizing forces of globalism, to the intellectual conformity that stifles debate, to the erosion of the particular in favor of the universal. It was a library of resistance—a bulwark against forgetting." (La Nouvelle Librairie (2018-2024) by Mariano Navarro). Global Capitalism Under Attack. A single gunshot to the heart and the prisoner dies instantaneously. In the twenty first century, the cultural fusillading of the West by the communist and fascist armies of statism commenced a second ago in historical time, and now the West is dying a thousand deaths. It is dying from Marxist rounds engraved with messages of gender, race, class, ethnicity and sexual orientation politics, rounds officially antifascist, a multitribal monster emerging from the womb of the master's proletarian religion. It is dying from fascist rounds engraved with messages of race politics, ethnicity politics, nationalist politics, patriotic politics, rounds officially antiMarxist, rounds of neoMarxist hate. Before the execution squads armed by the masses, the West is vanishing into the shadows of failed civilizations, dead by suicide.

FROM BABY BOOMERS TO GENERATION Z: A TIMELINE OF ACCELERATING STATISM

I, (last name, first name), joining the ranks of the Vladimir Ilyich Lenin All Union Pioneer Organization, in the presence of my comrades solemnly promise: to passionately love and cherish my Motherland, to live as the great Lenin bade us to, as the Communist Party teaches us to, as require the laws of the Pioneers of the Soviet Union. Thus was the solemn promise a child recited on the day he or she joined the Vladimir Lenin All Union Pioneer Organization. Founded in 1922, the Young Pioneers was the leading youth organization of the Soviet Union, training children aged 9–14 how to be dutiful robots in the service of communism, ready to kill and destroy when the state commanded. Ready for fighting and fanaticism under the motto: Pioneer, to fight for the cause of the Communist Party of the Soviet Union, be prepared! (Lenin's Children: On The Genealogy Of The Scouts And Pioneers In Russia 1908-1924 by Sebastian Waack). These boys and girls enter our organizations with their ten years of age, and often for the first time get a little fresh air. After four years of the Young Folk they go on to the Hitler Youth, where we have them for another four years. And even if they are still not complete national socialists, they go to Labor Service and are smoothed out there for another six, seven months. And whatever class consciousness or social status might still be left, the Wehrmacht will take care of that. (Life And Death In The Third Reich by Peter Fritzche). Thus spoke Adolf Hitler on the Third Reich's ability to transform civilized children into dutiful robots in the service of national socialism, ready to fight, kill and destroy with unwavering fanaticism when the state commanded. Statism is a virus which never dies but endlessly replicates among the masses during the final stages of civilization. Like Christianity, it is a religion of the human gutter and human bacteria which grows in the hothouses of the rejection of reason. In the twenty first century, it is growing at lightning speed and has infected a generation of children, the future leaders of the West, and transformed them into Manchurian Candidates waiting to be activated. Succeeding the Millenials or Generation Y, Generation Z, defined as people born between the mid 1990s and 2010, carry the torch of statism like their predecessors beginning with the Baby Boomers. From the Baby Boomers to Generation X to Generation Y to the present day Generation Z, a straight line ascending into greater and greater statism defines the late modern age and is digging the grave of the West's Enlightenment legacies. Today's Generation Z is the most statist generation in modern times, and is rendering the free world unrecognizable. Generation Z. Look at Generation Z and see it promote statism under all its names, from Mussolini's fascism to Hitler's national socialism to Marx's communism. See it defend the murder of 100 million people by the Communist Bloc in the name of the proletariat. See it promote a regime of big government and big welfare. See it promote the imposition of tyranny and the path to total enslavement in the name of the people. See it promote the statist mixed economy, the statist welfare state, statist price controls, and statist social justice peddled as the highest form of fairness. See it promote state ownership of the means of production. See it promote statist central planning and suffocating state regulations. See it promote statist wealth redistribution and the robbing of producer Peter to subsidize nonproducer Paul. See it worship a god called the Collective and reject the rights, freedoms and dignity of the individual. See it reject individual existence and worship at dark altar tables, stained with the blood of millions, marked totalitarian government: "A recent survey by the Cato Institute and YouGov paints a troubling picture: 62 percent of Americans aged 18–29 say they hold a 'favorable view' of socialism, and 34 percent say the same of communism. This is shocking given that communism is responsible for 100 million deaths worldwide and is rooted in socialism, the same philosophy that spawned both Mussolini's fascism and Hitler's national socialism. To favor socialism is to flirt with tyranny. Therefore, it is imperative that libertarians educate more Americans to recognize the socialist actions of big government and fight against them. As Friedrich Hayek warned in The Road To Serfdom, 'the rise of fascism and Marxism was not a reaction against the socialist trends of the preceding period but a necessary outcome of those tendencies'. He also noted that both Mussolini and Hitler started out as socialists. In the March 2025 survey, Cato-YouGov asked a national sample of 2,000 Americans aged 18 and older about US fiscal policy, including the following: 'Do you have a favorable or unfavorable view of Socialism?' and 'Do you have a favorable or unfavorable view of communism?' A total of 43 percent said they have a 'favorable' view of socialism, and for those aged 18–29, 62 percent said favorable. For communism, a total of 14 percent said they have a favorable view; however, in the 18–29 group, 34 percent said favorable. That's about 18 million people. (The findings are estimates: there are an estimated 52 million Americans aged 18–29, so 34 percent is 17.68 million; 62 percent of that age group is roughly 32 million people). In other words, roughly one-third of young Americans say they're fine with an ideology that has outpaced nazism in terms of body count. (The Black Book Of Communism, Harvard University Press, documents that about 100 million people died in the 20th century because of communism). In addition to the communist fans, some 32 million young Americans are fine with socialism. The poll did not define socialism. So, it's unclear whether the respondents view it in the historical way, where the state owns the means of production, or if they see socialism as a modern day mixed economy with cradle to grave welfare, price controls, and 'fairness' enforced by the state. As Senator Rand Paul (R-KY) wrote in The Case Against Socialism (2019), young Americans who identify as socialists don't even agree on what the term means. Some want government ownership of industries and central planning, and others want heavy regulation, wealth redistribution, and a vast welfare state. However, what unites them is a disdain for capitalism and a preference for collectivism over individualism. This is innate to all forms of socialism. As Ayn Rand warned in 1944, 'Fascism, nazism, communism and socialism are only superficial variations of the same monstrous theme—collectivism'. In a 1965 essay, The New Fascism: Rule By Consensus, Rand added that socialism and fascism 'both negate individual rights and subordinate the individual to the collective, both deliver the livelihood and the lives of the citizens into the power of an omnipotent government—and the differences between them are only a matter of time, degree and superficial detail.' " (Young Americans Like Socialism Too Much—That's A Problem Libertarians Must Fix by Michael Chapman). Generation Z. Look at Generation Z and see a demographic cohort brainwashed by Marxists in control of the educational establishment, by propagandists reaching from kindergarten to college. See programmed human machines promote Muslim, Arab and Palestinian terror attacks on Israel and Jews. See them promote Hamas's mass murder of Jews. See them promote transgenderist claims, in defiance of science, that sex has nothing to do with chromosomes and can be changed at will. See them promote males who dress up as females and call themselves females. See them worship at the altars of transgender demonism, satanism, perversity and psychosis. See them reject liberal politics in favor of gay, lesbian and transgender tribal politics. See them condemn whites as a Western, privileged, capitalist oppressor class which must be exterminated. See them condemn capitalism as a regime of white racism and slaveholding. See them proclaim that blacks are victims of white capitalist oppression and deserve reparations from whites in the form of their entire wealth. See them proclaim that a progressive society is governed by critical race theory, which is critical of Enlightenment ideas and promotes black, Marxist, totalitarian dictatorship in their place. See them condemn as domestic terrorists all those opposed to critical race theory and the indoctrination of schoolchildren in it, and champion liberal democracy and academic education. See them condemn America as an evil, racist, oppressive nation because it has established liberal capitalism and constitutional rights. See them condemn Donald Trump as Hitler because he seeks to roll back radical leftism and return American politics to the center. Because he opposes racist and sexist discriminatory policies called diversity, equity and inclusion. Because he opposes illegal immigration and the mass settlement of Muslim haters of Western liberal values. Because he opposes LGBT tribal politics and promotes individual rights and equality of all before the law. Because he promotes Israel as the only free society in the Middle East, and opposes Palestinian terror attacks seeking to continue Hitler's Final Solution: "A large number–especially those attending today's radicalized far left colleges and universities– have been jubilantly demonstrating in America's streets their approval for monsters and murderers, in particular Hamas. (An August 2025 Harvard/Harris poll found that an astonishing 60% of Gen Z voters aged 18 to 24 supported Hamas over Israel). And no wonder. For in addition to their massive involvement with online influencers, the other major institution engaging–and reprogramming–Gen Z's minds is America's poisonous school system. Fact: America's entire education establishment, from K-12 public schools to college and graduate school–with precious few exceptions–is dominated by the far left. Not liberals. Radical leftists–the kind who enjoy subjecting preschoolers to 'drag queen story hour', where demonically possessed transgender men dressed up as women (and sometimes dressed up as demons, with horns protruding from their heads) read stories about heroic LGBT characters to innocent toddlers forced to sit at their feet. For children just a few years older, it's every bit as perverse: White children are exhorted to see themselves as 'white privileged' descendants of racist oppressors and slaveholders who should feel guilty over their despicable heritage." (Saving Gen Z And America, WND Staff, December 4, 2025). Generation Z. For over a half a century since the advent of the Baby Boomers, successive generations have accelerated the development of statism, each generation moving faster than its predecessor and shouting antiEnlightenment slogans more loudly. The latest generation represents the culmination of the West's late stage rejection of reason leading to statism. The symptoms are all present, expanding and increasing in virulence. The Marxist politics of gender, race, class, ethnicity, culture and sexual orientation, promoting multiculturalism, open immigration, dissolved borders and brazen tribalism at home, and Muslim terror throughout the world. The fascist politics of nationalism, ethnocentrism, trade protectionism and Hitler inspired populism. The Christian Right, condemning as murder the abortion of a prehuman, preembryonic, one celled zygote appearing at fertilization, and seeking to bring back the Dark Ages. Generation Z has widened the road to serfdom in the West.

MARXIST, CHRISTIAN AND FASCIST KILLERS OF AMERICA

You are Doctor Death, a poisoner, a murderer. You bring shame on all doctors. You have turned this clinic into a graveyard. (French 'Doctor Death' Who Poisoned Patients Jailed For Life by Hugh Scofield and Laura Gozzi, quoting a French prosecutor). On December 18, 2025, anaesthetist Frederic Pechier was convicted in the city of Besancon of poisoning thirty patients, twelve of whom died, victims who ranged in age from four years to eighty nine. America in the twenty first century has been poisoned and killed by three movements symptomatic of the late modern age's rejection of reason. The poisons had been rising for decades, and in the present day they have reached lethal levels and rendered the nation conceived in the Enlightenment, and dedicated to the principle of individual rights protected by constitutional government, unrecognizable. In the twenty first century, the nation whose Founding Fathers were students of John Locke, Adam Smith, Denis Diderot, Montesquieu, Voltaire and Edward Coke has descended into the fever swamps of religion, rejected its Enlightenment legacies and heritage, and collapsed into forms of religious tyranny. These forms are three in number and together they paint a portrait of a nation, the mightiest nation dedicated to individual rights in modern times, the heir and successor of the British Empire, spreading the message of freedom throughout the world, following now in the footsteps of ancient Rome, and becoming an engine of antireason, immorality and human rights violations. In the twenty first century, the arsenal of the free world has been crushed, like every other nation in the free world, beneath the dead weight of the masses, collapsed, like every other nation in the free world, into a new Dark Ages, and has signified, like every other nation in the free world, the definitive end of the story of the West. In the twenty first century, the United States of America has fallen under the control of three horsemen of the Apocalypse, three Grim Reapers, which have been empowered by the majority to claim the soul of the nation. These three religions are the Marxist left, the Christian Right and fascism. Look at these doctors of spiritual death, these poisoners of the well of freedom, and see the suicide of the world's policeman of freedom and the suicide of the West. Marxist Left. Look at Marxism today and see the master's nineteenth century tribalism of the proletariat and the bourgeois create a universe of offspring. The master opened a door marked tribalism and in the 1960s new children walked through it. The master gave his children a terrifying premise, the premise that individual existence is meaningless and illusory and a god called the Collective alone is meaningful and real, and they drew the terrifying conclusion that there are as many tribes or collectives as there are genders, races, classes, cultures, ethnicities and sexual orientations, no one of which may be privileged or exalted over any other, and this infinity of tribes paints a shining portrait of a progressive society. This progressive society is a Frankfurt School and New Left movement of neoMarxist tribal balkanization. It is an Antonio Gramsci and Herbert Marcuse seminar in tribal multiplication and subversion of liberal democracy. It is a community of interacting radicals, revolutionaries and ideologues. It is governed by the consciousness, world views, stories and legends of tribes, and their endless subdivisions and intersections. It proclaims that all people are not created equal, but some races are superior to other races, and blacks are superior to whites. It proclaims that capitalism is a regime of structural racism oppressing nonwhites. It proclaims that the laws, codes and norms of the Enlightenment are instruments of white supremacy. It proclaims that individual rights do not exist and only mystical group rights. It proclaims that free minds, free markets, property rights and private prosperity must be abolished because they are instruments of oppression of women, nonwhites and the poor. It indoctrinates the peoplen in kindergartens, primary schools, high schools and college classrooms, and through films, television, books, comics, games, social media, search engines, smartphones and news feeds, in a religion of mystical collectivism which rejects reality, reason, common sense and human sanity, and advocates the destruction of liberal civilization: "This new mutation of Marxism was cultural —'cultural Marxism.' It began to be debated and written about in the 1920s and the 1930s, by Antonio Gramsci in Italy and the socalled Frankfurt School in Germany, but this cultural Marxism only came to full fruition in the late 1960s when Gramsci was first translated into English and the Frankfurt School's Herbert Marcuse came to prominence among university students. Gramsci was translated by the British journal New Left Review, and Marcuse came to be known as the guru of the New Left. This Special Report discusses the dangers posed by this new mutation, one hatched by the 1960s' New Left. On American, Canadian, Western European and even Japanese college campuses in the early 1960s, rebellion found fertile ground in a rising generation of students. It was there that the New Left was born. Universities then continued to serve the revolution by providing a supportive ecosystem to those radical students as they entered adulthood and became professors, where they could indoctrinate subsequent generations. The strategy to achieve the new cultural Marxism was also no longer predicated on Marx's original prescription, the violent overthrow of the system by the working class, or in Marx and Engel's own words, 'formation of the proletariat into a class, overthrow of the bourgeois supremacy, [and] conquest of political power by the proletariat.' (Marx and Engels, Manifesto of the Communist Party). Rather, the strategy now draws on Gramsci's concept: Ideologues must infiltrate institutions and all of society and 'raise the consciousness of' the 'oppressed' with a new cultural world view, or narrative. Because of cultural Marxism's inroads into the education system, many of America's youth have already been raised on a diet of ideas that directly undermine the American Founding. They are not taught that all people are created equal; they are taught that some people are racially privileged due to structural racism. They are not taught individual rights so much as group rights. They are not taught that the United States, with its free markets and property rights, has brought more prosperity to more people than any other nation on earth. They are not taught that generation after generation has worked to achieve the Founders' ideal that all men are created equal. They are taught that America is systemically racist, that its very laws were designed to uphold something called white supremacy—which refers not to the vile notion that the white race is supreme, but to all Western traditions, codes, societal arrangements, laws and norms. Many Americans are today experiencing firsthand the effect of the poison that is being fed to their children in schools. The majority of Americans pays thousands of dollars in taxes to have their children indoctrinated in public schools and universities. Another significant portion of the population is paying additional thousands, even tens of thousands, to have their children indoctrinated in private schools and universities. And nearly all parents are allowing their children to be continually bombarded with these same antiAmerican, antireality, counterfactual ideas through movies, television shows, books, comics, games, social media, search engines, and the news feed on their iPhones." (How Cultural Marxism Threatens The United States—And How Americans Can Fight It by Mike Gonzalez and Katharine Gorka).

Christian Right. Look at the Christian Right in America today and see a movement which commenced in the 1950s, took over American conservatism in the 1970s, took over the Republican Party under the presidency of Ronald Reagan in the 1980s, and has been gaining power and influence ever since. Led by Evangelical Protestants and conservative Roman Catholics, it celebrated its greatest victory in 2022. On June 24 of that year, five judges on the United States Supreme Court donned the mantle of the Vatican's Dicastery for the Doctrine of the Faith and ruled that abortion is not a constitutionally protected right. It ruled that the Due Process Clause of the Fourteenth Amendment, mentioning life, liberty and property, refers to no such rights in reality. It ruled that the Citizenship Clause of the Fourteenth Amendment, stating that "All persons born or naturalized in the United States, and subject to the jurisdiction thereof, are citizens of the United States and of the State wherein they reside", does not state what it states about only born persons possessing rights, and ruled that individual states have the right to give constitutional protection to unborn entities. It ruled that the First Amendment of the Constitution, whose clause "Congress shall make no law respecting an establishment of religion", establishing religious freedom and the separation between church and state, does not state what it states. The Court ruled that individual states have the right to establish religion by declaring that a one cell zygote at the moment of its creation is an actual but mystical human person, possessing a supernatural soul, and that abortion at any stage of a pregnancy is murder. Listen to the Court rule that the law is not the law, and the First and Fourteenth Amendments of the Constitution are without meaning: "The Constitution does not confer a right to abortion; Roe and Casey are overruled; and the authority to regulate abortion is returned to the people and their elected representatives." (Dobbs vs Jackson Women's Health Organization). Fascism. Look at fascism in America today and see it reject the nation's libertarian constitutional principles, and peddle nationalism, ethnicism, trade protectionism and race socialism in the name of populism. See it promote Marxist collectivism, which Marxists call progressivism, and call it conservative, right wing politics, when in actual fact it is one more variant of left wing politics because it exalts group identity in place of Enlightenment individualism. See it peddle fascism in the Republican Party, and thereby disgrace the party founded as an antislavery, antistatist, profreedom and proEnlightenment party: "Republicans face a choice between populism and conservatism, former Vice President Mike Pence argued in a September 6 speech at St Anselm College in Manchester, NH. The Benedictine institution frequently hosts presidential candidates who campaign in the state's first-in-the-nation primary. 'Today I ask my fellow Republicans this: In the days to come, will we be the party of conservatism, or will we follow the siren song of populism unmoored to conservative principles?', Pence said in his remarks at St Anselm's New Hampshire Institute of Politics. Broadly defined, populism is a political tactic that claims to champion the common person over a real or perceived elite; it is not a consistent ideology and can include right wing or left wing politics, targeting entities such as political parties or corporations. 'Like progressives, Republican populists insist the government should dictate how private businesses operate.' 'Should the new populism of the right seize and guide our party, the Republican Party we've long known will cease to exist', Pence said, arguing conservatism includes protecting the nation's role on the world stage, fiscal responsibility and maintaining constitutional norms." (Pence at St Anselm's: Populism A 'Road To Ruin' For GOP by Kate Scanlon). Killers of America. In the twenty first century, America's Democrat Party has been hijacked by the Marxist left and the masses have manned the cockpit. America's Republican Party has been hijacked by the Christian Right and by the voices of fascism, and the masses have manned the cockpit. America has rejected its hallowed Constitution and its conception in liberty by landslides. Promoting totalitarian government in the name of collectives on earth or God in heaven, the new American masses fueling the Marxist left, the Christian Right and the voices of fascism have submerged the City on a Hill in a tidal wave of treason.

ANTIFA INTERNATIONAL

A wildlife charity has declared 2025 the Year of the Blooming Octopus after record numbers were spotted off the southwest coast of England. 'It really has been exceptional', says Matt Slater from the Cornwall Wildlife Trust. 'We've seen octopuses jet propelling themselves along. We've seen octopuses camouflaging themselves, they look just like seaweeds. We've seen them cleaning themselves. And we've even seen them walking, using two legs just to nonchalantly cruise away from the diver underwater'. ('Year Of Octopus' Declared After Warmer Seas Lead To Record UK Numbers by Jonah Fisher). The Octopus. Nicknamed the Devilfish, it is a symbol of transformation, regeneration, resourcefulness, adaptability, flexibility and intelligence in the service of evil. Since the Russian Revolution in 1917, the octopus has been the supreme metaphor for the spread of communism. Reaching across the world and invading region after region with the tentacles of totalitarian power, the communist octopus was an army and conspiracy fueled by the masses from Boston to Barcelona, and directed from Moscow, whose aim was to destroy every institution of freedom established by the West. Over the decades, the communist octopus has assumed a variety of names and forms. Founded in 1919 at a congress in Moscow convened by Vladimir Lenin and the Bolshevik Party, the Communist International threatened the free world for over four decades. In 1943, it was replaced and succeeded by the Communist Information Bureau, founded by Joseph Stalin. Later international communist organizations included the Council for Mutual Economic Assistance and the Warsaw Pact. The twenty first century has seen the growth and expansion of yet another world communist party. Founded by the German Communist Party in 1932, Antifa, short for Antifascist Action, has become a powerful movement in every nation in the West and is continuing the struggle of its predecessors to tear down the ramparts of liberal democracy. Announced in the Communist Party's newspaper The Red Flag, Antifa was described by the party as a "red united front under the leadership of the only antifascist party, the Communist Party of Germany". Developed by the Association of Revolutionary Visual Artists in 1932, the logo of Antifa has remained essentially unchanged over the decades. In the 1980s, the original two red flags, symbolizing communism and socialism, two names for the same reality, were replaced by a red flag and a black flag, the latter a symbol of another name communists adopted, anarchism. The name is a misnomer because anarchism is the doctrine of no government, while communism is the doctrine of maximum, totalitarian government. The red and black flag of Antifa strikes terror in the hearts of civilized people wherever it is brandished. Antifa Today. Look at Antifa today and see the tentacles of global communism spread under new names and faces. See an Antifa octopus spread violence as Antifa Ost, The Hammer Gang, Informal Anarchist Federation/International Revolutionary Front, Armed Proletarian Justice, and Revolutionary Class Self Defense. See it commit murder, mayhem, vandalism and bombings in the name of fighting fascists and the right wing scene. See it spread terror across Europe, Asia and South America in the name of fighting nation states and Fortress Europe. See it commit acts of violence in the name of defending the proletariat and fighting capitalist institutions. See it stage improvised explosives attacks in the name of fighting capitalist imperialism. See it commit acts of violence in the name of revolutionary self defense. See it plant bombs in the name of proletarian justice. See it send letter bombs in the name of anarchist federations and revolutionary fronts. See it commit acts of violence in the name of fighting capitalist structures and state repression. See it commit acts of violence in the name of solidarity with Palestine and Hamas terrorists. See a network and conspiracy of organizations, individuals and transactions dedicated, one and all, to the destruction of liberal democracy: "Today, the Department of State announces the designation of Antifa Ost, Informal Anarchist Federation/International Revolutionary Front, Armed Proletarian Justice, and Revolutionary Class Self Defense as Specially Designated Global Terrorists (SDGTs) and the intent to designate all four groups as Foreign Terrorist Organizations (FTOs), effective November 20, 2025. Antifa Ost. 1. Antifa Ost (also known as Antifa East and the Hammer Gang) is a Germany based militant group. Antifa Ost conducted numerous attacks against individuals it perceives as fascists or part of the 'right wing scene' in Germany between 2018 and 2023 and is accused of having conducted a series of attacks in Budapest in mid February 2023. 2. On September 26, 2025, Hungary declared Antifa Ost to be a terrorist organization and added the group to its national antiterrorism list. Informal_Anarchist Federation/International Revolutionary Front (FAI/FRI). 1. FAI/FRI is a militant anarchist group that primarily operates in Italy with historical self proclaimed affiliates across Europe, South America, and Asia. FAI/FRI declares the necessity of the revolutionary armed struggle against nation states and 'Fortress Europe'. 2. Since 2003, FAI/FRI has claimed responsibility for threats of violence, bombs, and letter bombs against political and economic institutions, including a courthouse and other 'capitalist institutions'. Armed Proletarian Justice. 1. Armed Proletarian Justice is a Greek anarchist and anticapitalist group that has attempted and conducted improvised explosive device (IED) attacks against Greek government targets. 2. Armed Proletarian Justice claimed responsibility for planting a bomb near the Greek riot police headquarters in Goudi, Greece on December 18, 2023. Revolutionary Class Self Defense. 1. Revolutionary Class Self Defense is a Greek anarchist and anticapitalist group. The group links its actions to broader political and social issues and cites opposition to 'capitalist structures.' 'state repression' and solidarity with Palestine.2. Revolutionary Class Self Defense claimed responsibility for two IED attacks targeting the Greece Ministry of Labor (February 3, 2024) and the Hellenic Train offices (April 11, 2025). Terrorist designations expose and isolate entities and individuals, denying them access to the US financial system and resources they need to carry out attacks. All property and property interests of designated individuals or groups that are in the United States or that are in possession or control of a U.S. person are blocked. US persons are generally prohibited from conducting business with sanctioned persons. It is also a crime to knowingly provide material support or resources to those designated, or to attempt or conspire to do so. Persons that engage in certain transactions or activities with those designated today may expose themselves to sanctions risk. Notably, engaging in certain transactions with them entails risk of secondary sanctions pursuant to counterterrorism authorities." (Designations Of Antifa Ost And Three Other Violent Antifa Groups, United States Department of State, November 13, 2025). Antifa Today. Look at Antifa today and see it commit maiming and disfigurement in the name of fighting right wing activists. See it stage mass attacks and injuries in the name defending blacks, gays and transgenders. See it spread street extremism, street activism and street violence under the flags of justice, liberation, the revolt of the working class and an antifascist guard: "A top far left Antifa lawmaker in France has been convicted of aggravated assault against a supposed right wing activist, it was revealed this week. Raphael Arnault, a member of the leftist La France Insoumise (France in Revolt/LFI) party and spokesman for the Lyon based La Jeune Garde Antifasciste (The Young Anti Fascist Guard), was convicted in 2022 to a four month suspended sentence over a 2021 group attack on who they believed to be a member of a right wing group. The victim, identified only as Geoffrey L, was approached by a group of six leftists, who surrounded him, demanding that he unlock his phone. After he refused they attacked him, injuring his arm. Arnault was specifically identified by the victim as one of his assailants. The long time street activist appealed the 2022 conviction, however, according to Le Figaro, he dropped the challenge in March, meaning that the conviction for aggravated assault is now definitive. In addition to the four month suspended sentence, the leftist MP was also ordered to pay €1,600 in damages. During a hearing, Arnault told the court that he and his comrades confronted the victim, explaining that he was 'fed up with activists like him attacking minorities because of their sexual orientation or skin color.' For these actions, the Lyon Criminal Court sentenced Raphael Arnault to four months' imprisonment, suspended, for 'aggravated assault resulting in one day of incapacity for work' and €1,600 in damages. Prior to last year's legislative elections, reports emerged that Arnault had an S file, meaning that he was being surveilled by French intelligence services for potential extremism. Despite this, the far left LFI party continued to back his candidacy and he was elected to the National Assembly to represent Vaucluse's 1st constituency. Meanwhile, the French government has also announced that it will seek to officially ban Arnault's Antifa cell in Lyon over its reported use of street violence as a tactic." (French Antifa MP Raphael Arnault Convicted Of Aggravated Assault by Kurt Zindulka). Antifa Today. Look at Antifa today and see its vast armies invade cities and fight their brother national socialists, in a replay of Weimar Germany when the redshirts and brownshirts battled in the streets for control: "The Berlin police union chastised Antifa extremists who attempted to violently shut down an Alternative for Germany conference for displaying the very fascist tendencies they claim to be fighting. Some 25,000 far leftists descended upon the college town of Giessen on Saturday, clashing with police and attacking people, including an MP, who were attending the establishment of the AfD's youth branch, Generation Germany." (Violent Antifa Extremists Are 'Hypocritical' And 'Self Righteous', Says Berlin Police Union by Kurt Zindulka). Antifa Today. It has been described by scientists and novelists the world over. Carl Linnaeus, Christian Paulinni, Denys Montfort, Jules Verne and Victor Hugo all describe a colossal sea monster, a ten meter long octopus, called a kraken, whose image struck terror in the hearts of sailors. In 1932 in the Karl Liebknecht House in Berlin, the headquarters of the German Communist Party, the kraken was sighted and commenced a career lasting up to the present day, the longest living communist octopus in history. It is called Antifa.

TROUBLE ON TURTLE ISLAND

A virus is a submicroscopic pathogen which multiplies within the cells of living organisms. Viruses infect every life form on earth, are present in every ecosystem, and are the world's most numerous life forms. There are millions of virus species but only 16,000 have been identified. A viral infection typically provokes an immune response in the organism which kills the pathogen, and in the absence of such reponse, the death of the organism is imminent. In the twenty first century, the West has become morally debilitated by the actions of its masses and lacks the immune responses to kill the agents of subversion. In the twentieth century, a virus called religion entered the cultural bloodstream and began multiplying and creating a new age. In the twenty first century, this age of religion is now in high gear, and has seen an endless multiplication of supernatural belief systems which have rained down destruction on the traditions and legacies of the Enlightenment. In the twenty first century, the West is following in the footsteps of ancient Rome and is in a state of moral free fall before the triumph of religion, and is becoming unrecognizable. Religions are multiplying like viruses and rendering science impossible. In addition to a resurgent Christianity, the religion which helped to kill ancient Rome, other sewers are rising and submerging nations. A resurgent Islam, which was defeated in the West at the Battle of Tours in 732 AD, is growing in power and influence and has placed the West in mortal danger. A religion which emerged in the nineteenth century and began growing in power and influence in the twentieth century, creating a global slave empire which killed 100 million people, in the twenty first century is more powerful and influential than ever before, popular in the cultural and political establishment and popular with the neighbors next door whose homes and businesses line Main Street. This religion is called Marxism, and after Christianity and Islam, it is the most popular religion on the planet. Religions join forces to confront their common enemy, the ideas of the Enlightenment, with added strength, and two such religions joining forces are Marxism and Islam. In the twentieth century, a Marxist-Islamist axis formed to combat Western liberal democracies, and in the twentieth century, it is more powerful and influential than ever before. Among the latest Marxist-Islamist groups to emerge in the viral hothouse of the twenty first century is the Turtle Island Liberation Front. Based in California and named after the ancient indigenous name for North America, named because native religions thought the continent rests on the shell of a turtle, the TILF promotes the overthrow of Enlightenment ideas in the name of Native American tribal sovereignty, liberation through decolonization, a proletarian uprising against capitalism, and Palestinian nationalism. In November 2025, TILF members Audrey Carroll and Zachary Page recruited Dante Gaffield and Tina Lai into Operation Midnight Sun, a plan to detonate backpack bombs at corporate logistics centers in Los Angeles at 12 AM January 1, 2026. On December 12, while at a campsite in the Mojave Desert constructing and assembling bombs for the attack, they were arrested by the FBI. Turtle Island Liberation Front. This virus cell of the Marxist-Islamist axis shouts Death to America across the pages of social media. It is antiEnlightenment because it is proextremist, proPalestine, antilaw and order, and antigovernment. It raises funds to establish a totalitarian regime in the name of a revolutionary change in government. It promotes violence and terror in the name of the working class. It rejects liberal democracy in the name of direct action. It proclaims that America and Canada are illegitimate Enlightenment nations occupying primitive native lands. It advocates Marxism in the name of Black Lives Matter. It proclaims that Israel and North America must be purged of their free institutions in the name of decolonization. It advocates open borders, unvetted migration, the assassination of Immigrations and Customs Enforcement agents, and the mass settlement of Muslim terror, while brandishing Palestinian flags and shouting Death to Ice! It advocates the overthrow of Enlightenment ideas in the name of the Order of the Black Lotus. It advocates the overthrow of liberal democracy as Operation Midnight Sun. It peddle bombs and conspiracies in the name of class war and class revolution. It wears black clothing and black powder in its quest to spread terror across nations and blow up the citadels of civilization. It records its evil plans in notebooks and studies them assiduously. It organizes campaigns of fear and intimidation in order to silence antiMarxist speech, eliminate antiMarxist political activities, create Marxist policy outcomes, and prevent the functioning of a free society. Rejecting the rule of reason, it is a Marxist explosive, detonation and mushroom cloud raining down radicalism, revolution and radioactive hate particles across the West: "Multiple splinter cell members of the radical Turtle Island Liberation Front, which posts disturbing slogans such as Death to America on social media, were arrested last Friday for allegedly plotting a New Year's Eve terror attack in the Los Angeles area. Turtle Island Liberation Front (TILF), a little known 'proPalestine, antilaw enforcement, and antigovernment' extremist group, has quietly been raising funds and resources to usher in a 'revolutionary change in government.' 'TILF also calls for the working class to rise up and fight back against capitalism', an FBI affidavit noted. 'Moreover, TILF advocates that liberalism and peaceful protest will be the downfall of those who believe it is enough, and that 'direct action is the only way' '. The extremist group is named after Turtle Island, an Indigenous term, particularly among the Anishinaabe and Haudenosaunee, for the continent of North America. It stems from tales about the continent being built on a giant turtle's back. That name, which predates the US, dovetails with the extremist group's goals of eliminating America, which it feels is illegitimate. Left wing activist groups such as Black Lives Matter have appropriated the term as well, and it is often used as a means of countering the 'colonial' names for the US and Canada. TILF has taken that concept to the extreme, while mixing a push for 'decolonization' of North America and of Israel. Its members have used phrases such as From Turtle Island to Palestine, Occupation is a Crime to convey that mix. The group has also proudly posted images on social media of its members brandishing signs such as Death to ICE!!! and parading around Palestinian flags. On Monday, the FBI and Justice Department announced that the feds foiled a plot by a TILF splinter group that calls itself the Order of the Black Lotus, which was allegedly working on 'OPERATION MIDNIGHT SUN', a bombing plot. Members of that splinter group handed an eight page memo on OPERATION MIDNIGHT SUN to a confidential FBI source, a criminal complaint explained. Four members of the Order of the Black Lotus—Audrey Ilene Carroll, 30; Zachary Aaron Page, 32; Dante Gaffield, 24; and Tina Lai, 41—were charged with possession of an unregistered destructive device and conspiracy. A fifth suspect, who has not yet been identified, was also charged with plotting a separate attack. The bombing plot entailed participants donning 'BlacBloc' attire, purchasing black powder pipe bomb materials in cash and taking other steps to conceal their identity, according to the complaint. They also seemed aware that the feds were likely tracking them. Page claimed it was '100,000[%]' likely the FBI was on their trail during a December 7 meeting, per the complaint. Both Carroll and Page had been contemplating follow up attacks, such as targeting Immigration and Customs Enforcement agents with pipe bombs, hoping it 'would take some of them out and scare the rest', per the complaint. '[I] kind of had this notebook where I wrote down multiple plans that never happened or got delayed/ so it's like/my terrorist diary /lmaooooo/I have to get rid of that', Carroll wrote in a Signal exchange with the FBI's source, per the FBI complaint. President Trump had signed an executive order on September 22 directing his administration to take aim at targeting domestic terror groups such as Antifa. 'These threats are sophisticated, organized campaigns of targeted intimidation, radicalization, threats, and violence designed to silence opposing speech, limit political activity and direct policy outcomes, and prevent the proper functioning of a democratic society', Los Angeles first assistant US Attorney Bill Essayli told reporters. The four suspects were busted in Lucerne Valley in the Mojave Desert, where they tried to detonate an improvised explosive, according to authorities. They are slated to make an initial appearance in Los Angeles federal court on Monday." (What Is Turtle Island Liberation Front, The Extremist Antigovernment Group Whose Offshoot Planned A NYE Terror Attack? by Ryan King). Turtle Island Liberation Front. This is a Marxist-Islamist virus peddling hate for anything symbolizing Western freedom and capitalism. Hate for America, founded by the British empire of freedom, hate for Israel, the only free society in the Middle East, and hate for ICE agents seeking to protect America's borders from an invasion by

Latin American dung and Muslim delirium. It promotes Marxist slavery in the name of progressivism, and Palestinian theocracy in the name of liberation. It condemns America as a fascist colonizer because it spread freedom into the New World and wiped out the dark avatars of prehistoric, Stone Age, tribal tyranny, and advocates mass violence, terror and the destruction of civilization in the name of justice and right: "The Turtle Island Liberation Front (TILF) is a communist, antiICE, proPalestinian domestic terrorist group. An alleged plot targeting Los Angeles on New Year's Eve by the radical group was just foiled by the FBI, which has arrested four members who planned to use improvised explosive devices (IEDs) in backpacks. Turtle Island is an indigenous name referring to North America. The group connects radical leftism and antisemitism seamlessly. They hate both the Great and Little Satan and are a component of the violent Red/Green Axis that combines progressive politics and proPalestinian dogma. Their founding chapter is located in Los Angeles. TILF's Facebook page contends that they are 'up against fascist colonizers. There are no morals for us to appeal to, no sense of justice or what's right. We cannot vote ourselves out of a mass colonizer occupation. The only way out is through resistance. Stop marching parades, fight back.' " (Red/Green Axis Terrorism: New Year's Eve Bombings In LA Plotted by Turtle Island Liberation Front Thwarted by FBI by Terresa Monroe-Hamilton). Turtle Island Liberation Front. In the twentieth century, the virus of religion began spreading through the West, let in, greeted and nourished by the masses. Once inside, it entered mental cells, began making copies of itself, and transformed the West, which rang open the Enlightenment, colonized the world with freedom, liberated savage realms, and created scientific and technological civilization, into a virus factory. In the twenty first century, the virus has spread into every sector of society and commenced recruitment for a new kid on the Marxist block: the Turtle Island Liberation Front.

THE TRAGEDY OF TRUMP'S TARIFFS

An excresence is an outgrowth on a living body, the result of a disease or abnormality. A cancerous outgrowth is a malignant tumor, forming when cells grow and divide uncontrollably, spread into surrounding tissues, and eventually kill the organism. Since the dawn of the twentieth century, America has been the scene of a cancerous growth called statism, its cells fueled and nourished by the masses. Every nation in the West has hosted this cancer but in America the disease has been especially terrifying because it has struck the world's arsenal of freedom. The extreme excresences and outgrowths of this disease began appearing in the mid twentieth century, and included the onset of gender, race, class, culture, ethnicity and sexual orientation politics, and the establishment of racist and sexist affirmative action policies. The cancer continued to grow in the twenty first century, and has seen policies of preferential treatment and discrimination on the basis of tribal identity paraded as diversity, equity and inclusion. Other excresences have included transgenderist ideology, rejecting, in defiance of science, the existence of sex chromosomes and proclaiming that sex is changeable. They have included the policy of open borders and mass settlement of enemy aliens. They have included the indoctrination of students from kindergarten to college in the tenets of Marxist identity politics. They have included the rise of climate change hysteria and doomsday environmental scenarios, advocating the dismantling of modern scientific and technological civilization in the name of eliminating greenhouse gas emissions. They have included the establishment of health care as a universal human right, a great leap forward in the growth of the American welfare state. They have included a government mandate to obtain health insurance, the first government mandate to obtain a product in the nation's history, enacted under Barack Obama, and a government mandate to buy electric cars in the form of tax credits, enacted under Joe Biden. The forty fifth and forty seventh president of the United States, Donald Trump has eliminated these excrescences because they were unpopular with a sufficient number of voters, eliminated all save one, Barack Obama's health care entitlement Affordable Care Act, because this has become part of the new American welfare state consensus, an American welfare state sacred cow, bringing mass dependency on the government to new heights. Trump's elimination of these cancerous outgrowths and attempt to return the nation to the New Deal-Great Society centrist order, while not a libertarian revolution, has guaranteed him a place in the ranks of libertarian reformers. But a stain on Trump's record of antistatism has appeared in his tariff policies. It has appeared in his promoion of the statist principles of social protection and social responsibility in the area of foreign trade. The same president who eliminated, on grounds of human liberty, the mandates to obtain health insurance and purchase electric cars, is the one who promotes the invasion of liberty in the form of tariffs, forcing consumers to buy domestic goods. Trump's antistatist side coexists uneasily and competes with his promotion of tariff statism, and the result is a tragedy for Trump and a tragedy for the cause of freedom. The masses who voted for Trump want both the elimination of the far left excrescences bedevilling them and the imposition of statism in the form of tariffs, and this is exactly what Trump has delivered. Trump's Tariffs. Look at Trump's tariffs and see economic freedom and the fruits of that freedom endangered. See the hallowed principle of free economic choice placed under regulation. See rising trade wars endanger Americans' health, happiness, prosperity and quality of life by forcing them to buy more expensive domestic goods. See the inborn, inalienable right of trade freedom, the right to purchase the goods of one's own choice, sacrificed on the altar of the state and community. See America descend down the rungs of economic freedom and land at the bottom, disgraced in a cesspool filled with nonWestern, retrograde societies born in the darkness of Africa, Asia and the Caribbean: "For a moment on April 9, the average US tariff rate leapt to 32 per cent, making American consumers the highest tariffed people in the world. For the next 90 days, the average US tariff rate will be about 25 per cent, which will leave Americans paying more than the citizens of any other industrialized nation, putting us in the company Sudan and Djibouti. America, despite what you may have heard, is currently a pretty great place to live and work. While Americans represent just 4.2 per cent of the world’s population, they produce more than 26 per cent of the world’s GDP. As a result, US median income is nearly nine times the global average and the US poverty rate is about one fortieth the global rate. We have our problems. Every country does. But Americans are among the healthiest and wealthiest people to ever walk the planet and are generally quite satisfied with their lives. But this prosperity didn’t just happen. It was built on a foundation of economic freedom. And by our calculations, that freedom is rapidly eroding thanks to President Trump’s trade war. Individuals are more economically free when they are allowed to make more of their own economic choices. Governments can protect these choices by impartially safeguarding everyone’s right to own, use and exchange property. Or they can limit economic choice through taxes, regulations, tariffs, and manipulation of the value of money. One of us (Lawson) has been measuring economic freedom for nearly three decades. His annual Economic Freedom of The World report, published by the Fraser Institute in Canada and the Cato Institute in the US, measures the degree of economic freedom in each of 165 countries using 45 indicators of government policy. Ten of these indicators measure trade freedom, reflecting its importance in overall economic freedom. Many of us cherish economic freedom for its own sake, believing that each of us has the inalienable right to choose our own vocation, to spend our own resources as we see fit, and to contract with others as we like. But even if these considerations don’t appeal to you, you should value economic freedom. That’s because—as has been documented in nearly 1,000 peer reviewed studies—it makes life better. Compared with the least economically free places, people in the freest nations earn 7.6 times as much, live 16 years longer, and are 40 per cent more satisfied with their lives. They also tend to be more literate, more tolerant and less corrupt. All of this helps explain why the United States—which last ranked as the fifth freest economy in the world—is so prosperous. Americans have long been some of the most economically free people on the planet. US trade freedom, the area of economic freedom that gauges our ability to exchange with people in other nations, is a key component of that. It accounts for tariffs, regulatory trade barriers, controls, and black market exchange rates. US trade freedom peaked in the 1990s at 8th in the world. But as other countries allowed their own citizens to trade more freely, the US failed to keep up and by 2022, it had fallen to 53rd place. As US tariff rates have gyrated up and down, we have re-run the numbers, estimating the effects on US trade freedom and on US economic freedom more broadly. For the brief time this month when average US tariff rates were 32 per cent, US trade freedom slipped to 72nd place, just behind Haiti, a country that the president has brutally mocked for its poor living conditions. We also slipped to 10th place in overall economic freedom. Now, with average U.S. tariffs at 25 per cent, US trade freedom has crept back up to 70th place, just ahead of Rwanda while overall economic freedom remains 10th. America is a great country. But our prosperity depends on our freedom and Trump's trade war is a clear threat to that." (How Trump's Tariffs Affect US Economic Freedom—And Why That Matters by Robert A. Lawson and Matthew D. Mitchell). Trump's Tariffs. Look at Trump's tariffs and see massive, unAmerican social engineering and central planning at work. See Americans deprived of their constitutional right to buy the goods of their choice and buy lower priced foreign goods. See a president who ended in the name of consumer choice the 7,500 hundred dollar tax credit to buy electric cars, imposed by Joe Biden, turn around and impose tariffs on low priced electric cars from China, India and Mexico, and reestablish government interference and consumer mandates in another domain: "There's a lot of crowing in certain quarters about the two percent decline in US electric vehicle sales in 2025 compared to the year before. Francis Menton, the lawyer who writes the Manhattan Contrarian blog, for instance, claims vindication for his prediction in February 2023 that electric vehicles would not 'sweep the country and become the dominant form of transportation.' The reasoning behind his forecast: 'It is always wise to bet against central planning of the economy.' In this case, central planning amounted to state CO2 emissions goals, CAFE mileage requirements and federal and state tax subsidies. The One Big Beautiful Bill Act ended the 7,500 dollar credit for EV purchases, and President Trump on December 3 issued an order to roll back CAFE standards 'to levels at which combustion vehicles can comply.' Like Menton, I don't like central planning. Nor do I support mileage standards or subsidies. Americans have proven in the past that the best route to prosperity and health is free competition without government meddling. Our own government is denying Americans the opportunity to buy the cars of their choice by imposing huge tariffs on low priced electric vehicles, which are pouring into the rest of the world." (Drop subsidies AND tariffs: Let Americans Choose Their Own Cars by James Glassman). Trump's Tariffs. In his second term, Donald Trump is fulfilling his campaign promise to complete construction of a wall between Mexico and America by the end of his term. He is fulfilling his promise to protect the nation from invasions by enemy aliens, and has received the overwhelming support of the voters: "President Trump appears to have finally triumphed in the border wall battle, turning a major political battleground issue into a no brainer winner for a majority of voters and Congress." (Trump Seizes Victory In Border Wall Fight With New Funding by Stephan Dinan). Hand in hand with Trump's construction of a border wall to protect American freedom is his construction of a tariff wall to enforce social protection and social responsibility, to force consumers to subsidize domestic industries, and to abolish consumers' freedom of choice. One wall to protect freedom and another wall to protect statism. Such is the triumph and the tragedy of Donald Trump.

THE TWO ROOSEVELTS

Skidmore, Owings and Merrill is the most influential architectural firm in the world. Founded in 1936 by Louis Skidmore and Nathaniel Owings, it was joined in 1939 by John Merrill. With offices in San Francisco, Los Angeles, Washington DC, London, Melbourne, Hong Kong, Shanghai, Seattle and Dubai, it was a pioneer in Modern architecture and skyscraper design and construction. It has designed some of the tallest buildings in the world, including the Willis Tower in Chicago, One World Trade Center in New York, and the Burj Khalifa in Dubai, which is the tallest. In the field of politics in America, two members of an iconic political family were the nation's architects of its descent into statism, and designers of skyscrapers soaring into an inverted, upside universe of immorality, unconstitutionality and unAmericanism. What Theodore Roosevelt commenced, his cousin Franklin Roosevelt brought to a finish, and these two presidents of the United States, Theodore the twenty sixth president and Franklin the thirty second president, were the voices of the rising masses like no other voices, and sought to implement what the masses demanded: the overthrow of the nation's liberal constitutional order and the establishment of a statist social democracy in which the majority holds unlimited power over the rights of the individual. The nation the two Roosevelts designed and built is the nation Amercans inhabit in the twenty first century, and is a nation unrecognizable from the nation founded in the Enlightenment on the battlefields of Lexington and Concord. Related as cousins and related as statists, the Roosevelts designed and built the decline and fall of America, and their new American nation was not only a portrait of the new American masses but a portrait of the decline and fall of the West beginning in the twentieth century. Look at the house the Roosevelts designed and built and see the suicide of America and the suicide of the West. President from 1901 to 1909, Theodore Roosevelt promoted statism in the name of progressivism and was the founder of the Progressive movement in America. He promoted statism in the name of a Square Deal for all Americans. He promoted statism in the name of trust busting, rejecting the traditional definition of a monopoly as exclusive possession and control of supply, and defining it as market domination owing to hard work and success in meeting consumer demand. He promoted statism in the name of the public interest. He demanded that businesses be subject to state supervision and regulation. He proclaimed that the president is the steward of the nation, responsible for planning and managing people's lives, and his powers are not confined to the explicitly enumerated powers set forth under the Constitution. He promoted statism in the name of consumer and worker protection. He promoted statism in the name of the national interest. He promoted statism in the name of the good of the citizenry. Racing along the statist path hewed by his cousin, Franklin Roosevelt, president from 1933 to 1945, conducted the nation to its final stop. He promoted statism in the name of a New Deal, Social Security and a safety net for all Americans. He promoted statism in the name of public works. He promoted statism implemented by a new fully fledged caesarism and imperial presidency. Promoting comprehensive financial regulation and social welfare programs, he continued Theodore Roosevelt's activist vision of government and, in violation of the Constitution with its guarantees of the rights to life, liberty and property contained in the Fifth and Fourteenth Amendments, changed the role of government in people's lives from one of servant and protector to one of master and controller. Continuing where Theodore Roosevelt left off, Franklin Roosevelt permanently changed the character of government and established a new American leviathan looming over the people. The Two Roosevelts. The two Roosevelts have been the most influential political figures in America since the dawn of the twentieth century. Theodore Roosevelt's Progressivism laid the basis for Franklin Roosevelt's totalitarian New Deal, and pundits, encyclopedists, journalists, historians and the masses have canonized them as saviors of the nation. The Progressive-New Deal axis of statism told people they could not drink alcoholic beverages. It told businesses how much they must pay employees at a minimum and how many hours they can ask employees to work at a maximum. It condemned capitalism as a regime of monopoly provision and prices, preventing competition, and blanketing the people in a pall of poverty and making prosperity impossible. It denied the facts of reality that large corporations achieved their dominant market positions through efficiency, low prices and quality products, and proclaimed they became successful through force and fraud, and are monopolies preventing entry by competitors, and must be broken up by the government. It promoted statism in the form of high tariffs, proclaiming that consumers have a social responsibility to subsidize domestic industries. It promoted statism in the form of government ownership of natural resources. It condemned capitalism as a horror of unsafe food, tainted by rats, disease and human body parts. It proclaimed that true liberalism is not liberalism, A is not A, but is government interference in the lives of the people and enslavement to a god called the Collective, and true progress is not progress, A is not A, but is regression into the caves and swamps of tribal tyranny: "While Franklin Delano Roosevelt narrowly missed being Time

Magazine's Man of the Century, there is no doubt that the man who prolonged the Great Depression looms large in the consciousness of statist journalists and historians. Although FDR's role in the Second World War is of utmost importance to the pundits, his main historical role seems to be the New Deal, which permanently established the welfare/warfare state in this country. Contrary to popular belief, FDR's New Deal was not the most significant legislative period of the 20th Century. In fact, had it not been for the reign of Progressivism more than two decades earlier, Franklin Roosevelt would simply have been a relatively obscure governor of New York, known more for being a distant cousin of President Theodore Roosevelt. The New Deal did not rise out of a vacuum. Rather, the New Deal--and the subsequent canonization of FDR--came about as the result of the legal, bureaucratic and intellectual framework that was laid down during the Progressive Era of the early 1900s. Without Progressivism, the New Deal would and never could have come into existence. The vast expansion of the state apparatus that occurred during the 1930s moved along tracks already laid by politicians like Teddy Roosevelt and Woodrow Wilson. By the mid 1930s, the New Deal, far from being a legislative aberration, naturally followed the economic crisis that Progressivism had caused. Among the many 'successes' of Progressivism were antitrust laws, increased business regulation, minimum wage laws and prohibition of alcoholic beverages. Other than prohibition, historians (and many economists) almost uniformly praise Progressivism and its results. Take the passage of antitrust laws, for example. Whether it be from history texts, encyclopedias or news stories, the story is almost always the same: huge business trusts were monopolizing the economy, artificially driving up prices, producing shoddy products, and generally dragging down the standard of living for most people. Aggressive enforcement of antitrust laws, especially after the passage of the Clayton Antitrust Act of 1914, broke up many trusts and set the stage for future prosperity. The only problem with this explanation is that it is patently untrue. First, if American businesses were stifling competition and charging monopoly prices, they had a strange way of doing it. By almost any standard of measurement, economic prospects for nearly everyone were increasing by the end of the 19th century, as prices for most goods fell rapidly. In fact, it seems that one of the most insidious things to come from the Progressive Era was the wedding of mainstream journalism and statism. The formerly independent journalist now became a flack for expansion of the power of the state, as the chief beat of news reporters became the various government agencies. Most of the muckrakers were also socialists. For example Upton Sinclair is famous for his 1906 book, The Jungle, which, among other things, described what were supposedly horrific conditions in the meat packing industry in Chicago. While most history books treat his depiction of rats and even humans being processed into meat sold to consumers as gospel truth, his book was simply untrue and represented a crude attempt to convince Americans that socialism was their only hope. (Investigation after investigation of the meat packing industry showed Sinclair's claims to be false). Ida Tarbell's The History of the Standard Oil Company, an antiRockefeller screed which many historians treat as an accurate documentary of Standard Oil's practices, must be seen in the light of the author herself. Tarbell, another socialist, was the daughter of an oil executive from a rival oil company that had lost the battle of the marketplace to Standard Oil. Although competent economic historians have pointed out time and again that Rockefeller's company gained its large market share through efficiency and lower prices, Progressivists who believed oil--like everything else--needed to come under the heavy hand of government spread the lie that Standard Oil had gained its dominant position through violence, fraud, and chicanery. Nor was Progressivism the domain of just one political party, as both Republicans and Democrats vied with each other to see who could more thoroughly expand the state. Republicans, led by Theodore Roosevelt and Senator Robert LaFollette of Wisconsin, pushed for high tariffs, government ownership of natural resources, antitrust legislation. While the names of interventionist politicians have changed, the Progressive Era still remains." (The Legacy Of Progressivism by William Anderson). The Two Roosevelts. Signed by President Benjamin Harrison in 1890, the Sherman Antitrust Act, which for the first time in American history criminalized companies which achieved large sales volumes through voluntary transactions with consumers, criminalizing business success and superior ability, was the first shot fired by an incipient American statism. The shot would multiply into a volley under Theodore Roosevelt. The volley would detonate a mushroom cloud raining down totalitarian death particles on the nation's free institutions. In the wake of Franklin Roosevelt, a cascade of statism, appearing in the form of an alphabet soup of regulatory agencies, and in the form of the New Deal, Social Security, the Fair Deal, the New Frontier, the Great Society, Centrism, A Kinder and Gentler Nation, Compassionate Conservatism, the Third Way, Yes, We Can, the Affordable Care Act and Build Back Better, would pour down and submerge the nation. The catastrophe was unleashed by the two Roosevelts.

AMERICAN THINKER: ONLINE CHRISTIAN CRUSADE

India's Ganges River is the most polluted river in the world. Serving over two billion people, it is a scene of raw sewage dumped on an hourly basis by more than 1100 factories, offices and shops. It is held to be a sacred river, and millions of people bathe in its filth every year in the belief that the filth will cleanse them of their sins. Founded in 2003 by Ed Lasky, Richard Baehr and Thomas Lifson, American Thinker is an online magazine marching under the blazing cross of the Christian Right and filling a moral sewer with its advocacy of faith, fanaticism and socialism. Its readers bathe in its filth and feel cleansed of the Enlightenment ideas they hate. While officially antiMarxist, the magazine is a voice of statism. It lauds Marxist identity politics, gives it the moral high ground and criticizes only its implementation. It proclaims that reason, science and morality are on the side of Marxism, that the validity of freedom is rationally unprovable, and freedom's sole justification resides in blind religious faith. It exalts revelation in place of the empirical method championed by the Enlightenment. It exalts self sacrifice for the sake of others in place of rational self interest. It promotes the doctrines of Jesus, the doctrines of abject humility, unconditional love for random people, unconditional care for the poor, and compassion in place of justice. It proclaims that people should place God first in their lives in place of their own right to exist. It exalts social visions, the common good and community responsibility in place of individual rational flourishing, and the right of the individual to live and work for himself. American Thinker. Listen to American Thinker and hear it proclaim that the basis of freedom movements such as the Tea Party and Make America Great Again is Christianity and not reason. It proclaims that conservatism without Christianity is arbitrary and unmoored. It proclaims that reason and analysis must be handmaidens of the prior truths of the Christian faith. It proclaims that Marxism is informed by good intentions and not criminal intentions and Marxists mean well. It proclaims that Marxism as practiced is a mere appearance and not reality, while the unrealized reality of Marxism is good and noble. It proclaims that Marxism is a good and noble hope and wish, but is unrealistic and has never achieved. It proclaims that Marxism may lead to disaster and catastrophe but is a good and noble theory. It proclaims that the evil of Marxism stems merely from its outcomes and not from its ideals. It proclaims that Marxism is in theory just and benevolent and is only in practice evil and vicious. It proclaims that Marxism is a true portrait of a land in which everything is perfect, and only in its methods and practicalities is it immoral. It proclaims that affirmative action and diversity, equity and inclusion policies, which discriminate on the basis of group identity and do not view individuals as individuals, are wonderful policies. It proclaims that the notion of social justice, the notion of wealth and property redistribution for the sake of a mystical group, in place of natural, individual, earned justice, is a wonderful idea. It proclaims that universal public education for the scum of the earth, paid for by tax robbery of productive citizens, is a wonderful idea. It proclaims that appeasement of the forces of evil in the world is a wonderful idea. It proclaims that college loans to the scum of the earth, guaranteed by the tax robbed of productive citizens, is a wonderful idea. It proclaims that SNAP benefits for the scum of the earth, paid for by tax robbery of productive citizens, is a wonderful idea. It proclaims that Medicaid for the scum of the earth, paid for by tax robbery of productive citizens, is a wonderful idea. It proclaims that free buses for the scum of the earth, paid for by tax robbery of productive citizens, is a wonderful idea. It proclaims that rent control for the scum of the earth, violating the property rights of landlords, is a wonderful idea. It proclaims that gun control, violating the constitutional right to keep and bear arms, is a wonderful idea. It proclaims that Medicaid and health care entitlements for the scum of the earth, paid for by tax robbery of productive citizens, is a wonderful idea. It proclaims that transgenderism, which denies, in defiance of science, the existence of DNA as the determinant of human gender, and proclaims that gender can be changed, is a wonderful idea. It proclaims that mass unvetted immigration and the settlement of enemy aliens are wonderful ideas. It proclaims that defunding the police, and giving a green light to anarchy, violence and lawlessness in the streets, are wonderful ideas: "I turned 18 in 1979 and cast my first vote for Ronald Reagan in the 1980 presidential election. My vote may have been a response to having to wait in line for gas, or the debacle that was the Iran hostage crisis, or it may have been Ronald Reagan's television persona. I was tangentially involved in politics and had attended a few Young Republican events in my (Southern California) area, but I didn't think too deeply about culture, economics or foreign affairs. Today, I am a hardcore America First, MAGA, Tea Party Christian conservative. Since my youth, I have thought deep and long about what I believe and why. The foundation of my belief system is reason and analysis. First off, as a California resident, I have seen firsthand the mirage that is leftism. Democrats appeal to emotion by espousing the good intentions of their proposed policies (and, more recently, the evil intent of Republicans—eg 'kill Grandma'). Their policies always lead to disaster.

- Affirmative action
- Diversity, Inclusion, and Equity
- Social justice policing
- Appeasement abroad
- Free trade (resulting in the destruction of our middle class)
- Universal public education
- No risk college loans
- SNAP benefits for the poor
- Medicaid for All (including illegal aliens)
- Free buses
- Rent control
- Gun control
- Abortion, or the deceptively named 'reproductive rights'
- Transing of children, or the deceptively named 'gender affirming care'
- Mass unfettered illegal immigration
- Bend down the (health care) cost curve
- If you like your doctor, you can keep your doctor
- Climate change and the urbanization of the populace into smart cities

Wonderful ideas—in theory. In practice, the outcome of these policies has been disastrous, particularly for those who have bought in to the lie. Inner cities are rife with drugs, crime and homelessness. Social justice policing (and defund the police) has seen an increase in violent crime and a revolving door for the worst criminals being rereleased back into the neighborhoods. Appeasement abroad has seen the encroachment of radicalism, conflict, and war. Medicaid for All and SNAP have seen a near plurality of citizens (and non-citizens) dependent on the state. Obamacare has seen the hyperinflation of health insurance premiums, making health care all but unaffordable for a large swath of the American public. Government backed student loans have likewise seen hyperinflation of college tuitions and an epidemic of grade inflation, making the college diploma all but worthless. Abortion and now 'gender affirming care' have diminished the value of life and caused confusion and despair among our young. Climate change hysteria has resulted in multiple five to ten year pronouncements of doom. Illegal immigration has resulted in 20–30 million unvetted, unapproved people being permitted entry to our sovereign nation, resulting in unassimilated pockets of foreigners whose allegiance is not tied to our laws or our mores. Leftism (and its failings) is as much a factor in my conservatism as study, reason and thought. Our Founders devised governing principles, premised on (nature's) God, self rule, and limited government. As we approach the 250th anniversary of our founding, our destiny is uncertain. Will we rededicate our future to the principles established at our founding, or will we be drawn to yet another batch of intentions promising utopia?" (Conservatism Through Reason And Analysis by Earick Ward). American Thinker. On the pages of American Thinker, the Christian Right sets forth its manifesto. It is a manifesto of holy war. Condemning reason as pagan, modern and a heresy, one of the leading online organs of the Christian Right, with over 2.5 million visits per month, is leading a movement to bulldoze the house of the Enlightenment and bring down a new Dark Ages: "In a speech in the House of Commons in July, the Conservative MP Danny Kruger–who defected to Reform on Monday–made an impassioned speech to his fellow MPs to back a 'revival of the faith, a recovery of Christian politics, and a refounding of this nation'. Elsewhere in his remarks he called for Christians to 'destroy' and 'banish from public life' a 'woke' modern creed combining 'ancient paganism, Christian heresies, and the cult of modernism'." (Rising Christian Nationalism: A Threat To Us All, HumanistsUK, website). American Thinker. On the banks of the Ganges, the stench is overwhelming. It is caused by burning bodies from the cremation of the Hindu dead, and by the raw sewage flowing down the river. Peddling Christian Right bigotry, charity worship and collectivist morality, American Thinker reeks of a dangerous, diabolical moral sewer from which civilized people run for their lives.

THE DECLINE AND FALL OF THE WEST

Five million square kilometers, reaching from the Atlantic to the Persian Gulf to the Rhine to the Danube to Hadrian's Wall to the Sahara Desert. This was the Classical Greco-Roman world at its greatest extent in the second century AD under Emperor Hadrian. Before the mass acceptance of antireason in the form of Christianity, barbarism, caesarism, socialism and welfare statism, this was a world which for centuries exalted Apollo. God of reason, truth, healing, perfection and the sun, Apollo was the preeminent deity of Classical culture, the preeminent symbol of a culture the world had never seen before and has never seen since. In the fifth century, this Classical Apollonian culture collapsed from the treason of its masses, from its enemies within. A Dark Ages ensued which saw cities, roads, aqueducts and laws crumble, and saw the rise of chieftains, fiefdoms and the Christian Church. In 1000 AD, bells high atop churches across Europe tolled the emergence of a new culture, the culture of the West. Its symbol was not Apollo, god of reason, but Faust, who sold his reason to the Devil at a crossroads in exchange for infinite power and experience, symbol of the infinite, unbounded will, and this new Faustian culture of the West, emerging on the same European continent but as different from Apollonian culture as night is from day, would ascend to heights of power and glory before the mass acceptance of antireason in the twentieth century would spell its doom. The Faustian West: the culture of the antiApollonian philosopher Rene Descartes, who denied that man perceives physical objects when he opens up his eyes, and proclaimed that man perceives only his own mental ideas, and the existence of physical objects is not something self evident but can be legitimately doubted, and the only thing we can in fact be certain of is just the existence of our own consciousness, our sole "prior certainty". The Faustian West: culture of the antiApollonian philosopher Immanuel Kant, who denied that man perceives physical objects when he opens up his eyes, and proclaimed that man perceives only a veil of illusion and reality itself is nonphysical, nonspatial and nontemoporal, and sought to return the West to its Faustian roots in subjectivism, and roll back the age in which he was born, the age he hated, the Age of Enlightenment. The Faustian West: a Cartesian-Kantian fueled subjectivism would travel through the centuries and toll the bells of cultural collapse in the twentieth century, and help to write the final lines of the West in the present day. It would be assisted in its efforts by a resurgent Christianity seeking to bring back the first Dark Ages of the West, and by a resurgent Islam seeking to bring the West into a global Community of the Faithful. In the twenty first century, the forces of antireason have been let by the masses through the gates of civilization and been allowed to permanently settle, and are taking their toll and inflicting mortal wounds by the minute. The enemies of reason attacking and overruning the West in the twenty first century are four in number, and these four horsemen of the Apocalypse are sending the chill of fear through the hearts of sane, civilized people. Marxism. Look at Marxism today proclaim that a progressive society is an antisemitic, antiIsrael society because Jews and Israel stand for Western liberal capitalism. A progressive society is a radical society and a communist society which controls rents, control wages, controls grocery stores, and provides free mass transit and child care. A progressive society abolishes the police and allows social worker squads to give a green light to anarchy, violence and lawlessness in the streets. A progressive society seizes the means of production and nationalizes the mind and body. A progressive society seizes private houses, proclaims housing to be a universal human right, and gives free housing to the scum of the earth: "Despite Zohran claiming he is not a communist, his upbringing says otherwise. It defines him not only as a communist but an antisemite, which he has proven over and over again while denying that he is one. His radicalism covers a swath of communist initiatives, including freezing rent on a million apartments, raising the minimum wage to $30 an hour by 2030, making childcare and the bus system free, replacing the police with teams of mental health professionals, and implementing city run grocery stores. He has also previously said he wants to seize the means of production, which is an outright echo of Karl Marx. 'At one point, Mamdani went so far as to state that ‘seizing the means of production’ was the ‘end goal,’ evoking Karl Marx and Vladimir Lenin, both of whom famously spoke of socialism being merely a transitional phase to be used in achieving the true end goal of communism', the Jewish News Syndicate reported. In March of 2020, he wrote on X, 'The oligarchs who want us to return to work to goose the stock market are the same ones with thousands of luxury condos as investment properties, sitting empty while NYers die on the streets & in shelters. Seize these properties. House the homeless.' There is also a telling video from 2021 from the left-leaning Gravel Institute where he calls for taking private housing and making it public by buying large tracts of homes and transforming them into communist communes. That sounds a lot like BlackRock. 'If we want to end the housing crisis, the solution has to be moving toward the full decommodification of housing,' Mamdani said. 'In other words, moving away from the status quo in which most people access housing by purchasing it on the market and toward a future where we guarantee high quality housing to all as a human right.' " (Commie Jew Hating Mamdani’s Past Coming Back To Haunt Him by Terresa Monroe-Hamilton). Christianity. Look at the Christian Right movement today and hear the proclamation that a moral society enforces the Christian world view in every aspect of human life. A moral society outlaws abortion because a one cell zygote appearing at the moment of conception is an actual human person by virtue of the infusion of a mystical, supernatural, human soul. Everything possessing value in the West has its source in Christian evangelism and Christian faith, and ideas based on reason, common sense and human sanity possess no value whatever: "When the right wing American activist and influencer Charlie Kirk was shot dead aged 31, he was speaking at the kind of university event that helped propel him to social media stardom. At these events, Kirk became known for his combative style, inviting students to step up to the microphone and challenge his right-wing Christian worldview in front of a baying audience. On an episode of the online show Surrounded, for example, Kirk was asked if he had a 10 year old daughter who was raped and became pregnant whether he would want her to have the baby. 'The answer is yes, the baby would be delivered,' Kirk said. Kirk would often cite his Christian faith when explaining his positions on issues including Islam, gender and abortion. 'The West is the best because of Christianity. We must seek Christ first, and our national and cultural resurgence will naturally follow. For America to be great, we must remain majority Christian.' Kirk's evangelical Christianity and his young family were front and center in his politics. He married Erika Kirk, a businesswoman and former Miss Arizona, in May 2021 and they had two children together." (Charlie Kirk, The Conservative Influencer Who Became The Voice Of Maga Youth by Gareth Evans). Fascism. Look at fascism today and hear the proclamation that a progressive society is a white power, white nationalist and white supremacist society. Liberal democracy is a regime of genocide against whites. Jews stand for liberal democracy and the ideas of the Enlightenment, the ideas of reason, science and individual rights, and must be exterminated: "In the days following Tucker Carlson's vitriolic, xenophobic commentary about demographic change, most white supremacist reactions were supportive of the Fox News personality and praised him for railing against 'white genocide'. Some suggested that Carlson is finally showing his true colors and fully embracing white nationalism. 'Tucker sat down and proved white genocide was real. That white nationalists and white supremacists were 100% right and that it is being systematically implemented globally to genocide whites and make them powerless oppressed minorities within what were once their own borders. But that requires action.'--4Chan. Andrew Anglin posted appreciatively on his neonazi site The Daily Stormer: 'Tucker Carlson finally struck back against the Jews on Monday, dropping the ultimate truth bomb on his audience: Jews aggressively lobby for the same demographic policies in America that they openly declare would destroy their own country.' " (White Supremacists Applaud Tucker Carlson's Promotion Of Replacement Theory, Anti Defamation League, April 22, 2021). Islam. Look at Islam today and see it join forces with Marxism in a war to overthrow liberal democracy. See Marxists support Muslims, Muslims support Marxists, and a new Marxist-Muslim axis form, mirroring the Hitler-Muslim axis formed during World War II, advocating a global intifada against Jews and the West: "New York City's favored son, a Muslim communist by the name of Zohran Mamdani, who is the city's Democratic mayoral candidate, refused to condemn a term for killing Jews–Globalize the Intifada–three times during an interview on Meet the Press Sunday. Host Kristen Welker should be given credit for asking the question numerous times during the sitdown, but Mamdani expertly deflected as politicians always do when they don't want to honestly answer something. She noted to Mamdani that the phrase called for violence against the Jewish people, but he just couldn't bring himself to condemn it. Small wonder, considering that Mamdani is a supporter of Hamas and radical Islam, not to mention communism." (Zohran Mamdani Refuses To Condemn Calls To 'Globalize the Intifada by Terresa Monroe-Hamilton). The Decline and Fall of the West. "I have therefore found it necessary to deny knowledge, in order to make room for faith." Thus spoke Immanuel Kant in his masterwork Critique Of Pure Reason. Denying the possibility of knowledge, and brazen and shameless in its expression of psychosis, this quintessential statement of Western Faustian philosophy inspired a host of doctrines of social subjectivism. These doctrines proclaimed that individual groups create their own realities, and no particular reality thus created can be held to be more true or more valid than any other. It inspired Marxism to proclaim that economic classes create their own realities, and it inspired fascism to proclaim that nations and races create their own realities. It inspired the Marxist identity politics of gender, race, class, ethnicity, culture and sexual orientation, expressed in the school called critical theory, which is critical of the Enlightenment idea of objectivity. It inspired the creation of critical race theory, proclaiming that progressive political theory is critical of liberal Enlightenment ideas and is the theory of black supremacy and dictatorship. It inspired the creation of critical legal theory, critical of Enlightenment objectivity and proclaiming that law is an expression of the power of social groups, such as genders, races and classes, and cannot express universal, objective moral values. It inspired policies of discrimination on the basis of race and sex peddled under the names diversity, equity and inclusion. It inspired the doctrine of transgenderism, proclaiming, in defiance of science, that chromosomes do not determine gender and the latter is changeable by human will. Tribalism. Multiculturalism. Statism. Welfarism. The Marxist left. The Christian Right. Fascist white power. Global Islam. The forces of antireason crowd the stage of the late modern age and are overrunning civilization.

BRIGITTE BARDOT: THE JANE FONDA OF FASCISM

Hanoi, July 1972. Jane Fonda sits near a North Vietnamese antiaircraft gun, wearing Vietnamese clothes and a North Vietnamese Army helmet, part of her two week tour of the nation in support of communism. During her tour, she makes daily broadcasts on Radio Hanoi, condemning American foreign policy, parroting the communist line that America was intentionally bombing schools, hospitals and dikes, and extolling the Soviet backed regime founded by Ho Chi Minh as the angel's wings of proletarian liberation. She had become a communist in the mid 1960s, and in 1970 she spoke at Michigan State and Duke University, exhorting students to pray for the advent of communism: "If you understood what communism is, you would hope and pray on your knees that we would someday become communist." American actress and activist for multifarious causes on the far left, Jane Fonda had a sister active 9000 kilometers away in France. She had a mirror image with only the names and signs reversed, while the theme remained the same. The theme was socialism, the enslavement of the individual to a god called the Collective, and Jane Fonda's parallel in Europe promoted one brand of enslavement, while Fonda promoted another competitor brand in America. When French actress Bridget Anne-Marie Bardot died on December 28, 2025 at the age of 91, she left behind a political reputation as extremist as her American counterpart, and had inspired her fans to her cause as effectively as Jane Fonda has inspired her own fans. Her cause was fascism, and she promoted it zealously throughout her career, as zealously as Fonda promoted communism, and gaining as much notoriety. Jane Fonda: celebrity, actress, communist. Brigitte Bardot: celebrity, actress, fascist. Look at the celebrity and actress Charles de Gaulle described as "the French export as important as Renault cars" and see the march of race hate whose specter is as menacing as communism. Brigitte Bardot. She rejected liberal democracy in favor of racism, ethnicism and nationalism. She was in sympathy with Hitler's nationalist socialist processions. She condemned Islam, not from the standpoint of rational liberal democracy but from the standpoint of yet another religion, her own religion of race. She condemned mass unvetted migration, not from the standpoint of preserving a Western liberal democratic society but from the standpoint of preserving the purity of French ethnicity and the white race. She condemned the far left religion of transgenderism, not from the standpoint of reason and science but from the standpoint of fascist conservatism. She condemned far left gay and lesbian politics, not from the standpoint of liberal individualism but from the standpoint of fascist conservatism. She supported the French versions of Hitler's brownshirts, the National Front and the National Rally. She supported French culture which she defined, not as the Enlightenment culture of Montesquieu, Voltaire and Diderot, but as the culture of French racism, ethnicism and nationalism. She supported French tribalism and identity and rejected French liberalism and individual rights. She condemned multiculturalism, not from the standpoint of Western rationalist, Enlightenment supremacy but from the standpoint of French racialism and white power supremacy. She condemned the Islamization of Europe, not from the standpoint of liberal democracy but from the standpoint of Christian nationalism, and advocated the establishment of an exclusionary Europe reserved for whites and Christians. In letters, interviews, autobiographies, and online forums and social media platforms, this icon of the screen was a combatant for the cause of antiliberalism and antiEnlightenment, blasting away from trenches dug with the shovels of French tribalism, and from rifles loaded with rounds of Hitler's race hate: 'Brigitte Bardot, who has died aged 91, once the most photographed woman in Europe and a symbol of postwar cinematic modernity, spent the latter half of her life not in the spotlight of film but in the trenches of France’s extreme right politics. Her transformation from international sex symbol to ideological fellow traveller of the nationalist right was one of the most striking political evolutions of any European celebrity of the 20th century. Bardot’s early fame was built on the soft focus glamor of 1950s and 60s French cinema. By the time she retired from acting in 1973, she had already begun to cultivate a public persona defined less by film and more by outspoken, often inflammatory interventions on immigration, religion, and national identity. What followed was a decades long pattern of statements and publications that placed her firmly within the ideological orbit of the French far right. Her repeated convictions under France's laws against incitement to racial or religious hatred–five in total–marked her out as a celebrity unusually willing to test the limits of the country's antiracism legislation. Muslims, migrants, and LGBTQ+ people were frequent targets of her polemics, delivered through open letters, interviews, and a series of autobiographical books that became rallying points for sections of the nationalist right. Bardot insisted she was merely defending French culture; courts repeatedly found otherwise. Her political affinities were never ambiguous. She publicly supported the National Front (later Rassemblement National) from the 1980s onwards, praising Jean-Marie Le Pen at a time when most mainstream French figures kept their distance. Though she occasionally attempted to frame her sympathies as cultural rather than partisan her rhetoric, particularly on Islam and immigration, echoed the party's talking points with striking fidelity. Marine Le Pen later described Bardot as a 'symbol of French identity', a formulation that neatly captured the movement's attempt to fold her celebrity into its nationalist project. Bardot's animal rights activism, the one area where she retained broad public visibility, was also frequently entangled with her politics. For far right audiences, this fusion of animal welfare campaigning with antiimmigration sentiment proved especially potent. In her final decades, Bardot became a kind of cultural monument for the French far right: a glamorous relic of a nostalgically imagined France, repurposed as a voice of grievance against multiculturalism and what she termed 'the Islamization of Europe'. Her statements were eagerly circulated on far right forums and social media channels, where she was treated less as a former actress than as a veteran ideological combatant. Brigitte Bardot's legacy will be contested. To many, she remains a cinematic icon of the 20th century. But her political afterlife tells a different story: one of a celebrity who willingly aligned herself with exclusionary nationalism, and whose cultural capital was steadily absorbed into the machinery of the French extreme right." (Obituary: Brigitte Bardot (1934-2025), From Screen Idol To Far Right Icon by Roger Pearce). Brigitte Bardot. She condemned nonwhites as savage, subhuman and genetically inferior. She marched with Hitler's National Front and National Rally jackboots. She condemned Muslims, not from the standpoint of Enlightenment secular humanism but from the standpoint of Hitler's Aryan black magic. She condemned alien, unassimilated immigrants, not from the standpoint of Western rationalist values but from the standpoint of race hate and Christian activism. She spewed out violent rhetoric targeting the enemies of French ethnicity for extermination: "In the early 1970s, Bardot quit acting at the height of her fame, turning her attention to animal protection. While her campaigning earned admiration from supporters, her public life grew increasingly controversial as she embraced far right politics and made repeated racist and inflammatory remarks. Her activism hardened into open support for France's far right National Front, now known as National Rally, and the party's longtime leader Marine Le Pen. Over the years, French courts convicted Bardot multiple times for inciting racial hatred. In 2022, a court fined her 40,000 euros ($47,000) after she described people from Reunion, a French overseas territory, as 'degenerates' who had 'kept their savage genes'. It marked the sixth time authorities had sanctioned her for racist and hate speech. Muslims and immigrants were among her frequent targets." (Brigitte Bardot, French film Icon Turned Far Right Provocateur, Dies At 91, Al Jazeera, December 28, 2025). Brigitte Bardot. She condemned ethnic minorities from the standpoint of French bigotry and chauvinism. She condemned immigration and Islam from the standpoint of Hitler's Aryan church. She gave all of her heart, soul, convictions and character to the cause of French national socialism. She rightfully proclaimed that Islam is destroying France but proclaimed that the only antidote resides in a white power regime. She peddled race hate under the flag of patriotism and agitated for the exclusion of nonwhites. She was the Joan of Arc of the Prince of Darkness, defending his kingdom of ethnocentrism and race hate. She dedicated all her talents, abilities, courage, freedom, will and beauty to the cause of overthrowing the liberal democratic order and establishing a French Third Reich in its place: "Bardot's incendiary comments about ethnic minorities, immigration and Islam resulted in a string of convictions for inciting racial hatred. French courts fined her six times between 1997 and 2008 for her comments, particularly those targeting France's Muslim community. In one case, a Paris court fined her €15,000 (£13,000) for describing Muslims as 'this population that is destroying us, destroying our country by imposing its acts'. Jordan Bardella, the president of Marine Le Pen's far right National Rally party (RN), which Bardot supported, wrote: 'Brigitte Bardot was a woman of heart, conviction and character. An ardent patriot, devoted to animals that she protected throughout her life, she embodied a whole French era, but also above all a certain idea of courage and freedom.' Le Pen, whom Bardot once described as 'the Joan of Arc of the 21st century', wrote on social media that Bardot was 'exceptional for her talent, courage, frankness and beauty'. 'She was incredibly French', she said. 'Free, indomitable, whole. She will be hugely missed.' Such was Bardot's role in the far right's cultural pantheon that tributes were also paid to her from Italy's government, where the deputy prime minister, Matteo Salvini, called her 'a timeless star, but above all a woman who was free, nonconformist, protagonist of courageous battles in defense of our traditions.' " (Brigitte Bardot, French Screen Legend, Dies Aged 91 by Andrew Pulver and Angelique Christafis). Brigitte Bardot. Brigitte Bardot had four husbands. Her final husband was Bernard d'Ormale, a former advisor to National Front founder, Jean Marie Le Pen, which lasted until her death. Her first husband was to French film director Roger Vadim. This iconic director had five wives. After his first marriage to Bardot, 1952 to 1957, his third marriage was to Jane Fonda, 1965 to 1972. From Bardot to Fonda, Vadim completed a circuit of extremism, from communism to fascism, and his final stop was the hate politics his first wife would take to her grave.

2026: EUROPE'S BLACK NEW YEAR

Bleigiessen is a popular New Year's Eve tradition in Germany. It is an ancient methdod of divination in which molten lead is dropped into water, and the resulting shapes are interpreted as omens for the future based on their resemblance to animals, objects or structures. Over the Devil's flame, in the Devil's water and from the Devil's metal have come shapes of destruction for the continent which gave birth to Western civilization. In the new year 2026, Europe is presiding over forces of moral and economic collapse fueled by the masses. In the new year 2026, Europe is moving ever closer to the fate of ancient Rome, its final lines being written by a religion which captured the continent over a century before, and in its various forms and manifestations has defined the European cultural and political establishment since the dawn of the twentieth century. In the new year 2026, Europe is falling ever deeper into the grave dug for it by the popular mass religion known as Marxism, and is becoming a bankrupt shadow of its former self. In the new year 2026, Europe is intensifying the terrifying reality that it is a name and a place, morally signifying nothing, and is committing treason by the minute to the ideas of human rights it gave to the world and its empires spread to distant, savage clans, tribes and kingdoms. In Europe in the new year, see a once bright continent illuminated by the sun of the Enlightenment continue its descent into a black world in a state o moral eclipse, resembling in its tyranny and retrogression the jungles of nonWestern cultures. Europe 2026. Europe today exhibits Soviet style economic death. It exhibits Soviet style zero growth and falling standards of living. It exhibits Soviet style stagnation, poverty and falling private consumption. It exhibits Soviet style sky high government spending and taxation expropriating the wealth of the people. It exhibits falling business activity sentencing young people to mass unemployment. It exhibits Soviet style business regulations placing the private sector under de facto government control. It is a welfare state swampland with falling workforce participation. It is a green economy dismantling scientific and technological civilization in the name of reducing greenhouse gas emissions: "As 2025 draws to a close, it is time to take inventory of the European economy. Unfortunately, it is not an uplifting experience. To date, Eurostat has published numbers for gross domestic product and its components through the third quarter of 2025. If we calculate an average for those three quarters, the GDP of the EU itself has grown at 1.48% over the same three quarters in 2024. The euro zone is doing even worse: 1.35%. An economy that cannot sustain 2% real GDP growth over time will experience a slow, gradual decline in its standard of living. These economies typically also exhibit other signs of structural stagnation, aka, industrial poverty: a youth unemployment rate above 20%, private consumption accounting for less than 50% of GDP, and government spending and taxes exceeding 40% of GDP. It would be simple to draw the conclusion that the adoption of the euro has gradually thrown a wet blanket over the European economy. While the euro zone certainly has been a disappointment in terms of macroeconomic performance (something we critics pointed out already at the time of its introduction), it is certainly not the only explanation of Europe's crawling but seemingly unstoppable economic demise. Another factor has to do with the size of government spending, the burden of taxes, and the invasion of the regulatory state into the private sector. We need not look further than the detrimental effects of welfare state handouts on workforce participation and the depressing consequences of the 'green transition' on business investments." (The Sad State Of Europe's Economy by Sven Larson). Europe 2026. Europe today is a Soviet style economic disaster. It exhibits Soviet style low labor productivity and a Soviet style workforce unable to produce sufficient wealth and value to maintain a high standard of living. It has created a Soviet style future in which children are poorer than their parents, businesses are increasingly unable to earn a profit or employ people, capital formation is falling, the ranks of business titans and entrepreneurs is decreasing, personal incomes are falling, welfare dependency is rising, the tax base is decreasing, government revenues are falling, government spending is rising, government deficits are rising, and people with talent, intelligence and ambition are running for their lives: "It is with rising frustration I watch Europe slowly walk backwards into the future, without anyone raising even a modest voice of concern about it. Not only do I see this economic stagnation to decline trend in chilling economic statistics, but I also hear it being touted as a positive outlook on the future. On December 18th, ECB President Christine Lagarde explained: 'Economic growth is expected to be stronger than in the September projections, driven especially by domestic demand. Growth has been revised up to 1.4% in 2025, 1.2% in 2026, and 1.4% in 2027 and is expected to remain at 1.4% in 2028.' This is nothing short of an economic disaster unfolding in slow motion. A 1.4% growth rate after inflation is far below what an economy needs over time to preserve its general standard of living. Europe suffers from low labor productivity. The workforce is not adding enough value to meaningfully expand Europe's total amount of economic resources. It used to do that, but now it doesn't. this means that it is not producing enough value to maintain the standard of living it currently has. Herein lies a blunt message for Europe's future: your children are growing up to a less prosperous life than you had. Their children, in turn, will never reach their parents' standard of living. Slowly, a couple of percentage points at a time, the European way of life is becoming harder to attain, less common—and eventually a distant memory. The consequences are dire: Children grow up to be poorer than their parents; businesses find it increasingly difficult to make money, let alone create jobs; capital formation falls to replacement levels; no more cutting edge industrial leadership; stagnant household incomes continuously increase welfare state dependency; talented workers flee in large numbers to other parts of the world; low GDP growth leads to an erosion of the tax base, perpetuating fiscal imbalances and fueling an endless parade of political crises." (ECB Outlook Spells Economic Decline For Europe by Sven Larson). Europe 2026. Europe today exhibits Soviet style suppression of free speech. It seeks to censor antiMarxist speech at home and abroad. It presides over a global censorship empire seeking to stamp out the voices of liberal dissent. Its Digital Services Act has established a regime of online thought police suppressing politically incorrect speech. It monitors American companies and officials for antiMarxist viewpoints. It censors as disinformation speech which states truths, such as that the 2020 American presidential election was stolen by video recorded illegal ballot harvesting, by video recorded fraudulent mail in ballots, and by FBI suppression of Joe Biden's influence peddling operation conducted while he was vice president. It censors as incitement speech which states truths, such as that illegal migrants must be run out of town, and the houses of Muslim fanatics and terrorists must be razed to the ground. It seeks to establish, in the name of European values, a new world order abolishing European values of free speech, individual rights and limited government, an order establishing totalitarian lockstep by democratic vote: "We are the free world now. Those words from Raphael Glucksmann, a French socialist member of the European Parliament, captured the pearl clutching outrage of Europeans after the Trump administration did what no prior administration has ever done—stand up to Europe to defend the freedom of speech. This week, Secretary of State Marco Rubio barred five figures closely associated with European censorship efforts from traveling to the US. This includes Thierry Breton, the former European Union commissioner responsible for digital policy. In a post X. Rubio declared that the US 'will no longer tolerate these egregious acts of extraterritorial censorship' and will target 'leading figures of the global censorship-industrial complex from entering the United States.' Breton achieved infamy as one of the architects of the massive EU censorship system, which is now being globalized. Armed with the notorious Digital Services Act, Breton and others threatened American companies and officials that they would have to yield to European standards of free speech. After Breton learned that Musk was planning to interview Trump before the last presidential election, he even warned the X owner that he would be 'monitored' and potentially subject to EU fines. Socialist Glucksmann is now irate at 'this scandalous sanction against Thierry Breton.' 'We are Europeans,' he declared. 'We must defend our laws, our principles, our interests.' In other words, this is a war over whether Europe or the US Constitution will dictate the scope of free speech for American companies and citizens. Breton and his colleagues are finally being treated as what they are: a clear and present danger to the 'indispensable right' that defines all Americans. The EU has been enlisted by antifree speech figures in the US to force companies like X and Facebook to restore censorship of Americans. After Musk bought Twitter with a pledge to restore free speech protections, Hillary Clinton called upon European officials to force him to censor under Europe's Digital Services Act. Nina Jankowicz, the former head of Biden infamous Disinformation Governance Board, appeared before the European Parliament. She called upon the 27 EU countries to fight against the US, which she described as a global threat. " ("We Are The Free World Now": Europe Declares War On Free Speech by Jonathan Turley). Europe 2026. Time: 12 AM January 1, 2026. Bells across Europe toll the advent of the new year, and spectacular fireworks light up the faces of revellers from London to Paris to Berlin to Madrid. The beauty in the skies, the colors, explosions, shapes and displays, is as striking and dramatic as the descent of the continent into a nightmare. This is the nightmare of statism. In the new year 2026, Europe continues its descent into the hellfire of antiEnlightenment and is burning up its traditions and institutions.

THE UNITED NATIONS' DECADES OF DISGRACE

Stillbirth is the death of a fetus at twenty weeks of pregnancy. Before the baby is born, its death can be determined by ultrasound, and the cause of death is typically diagnosed as a constricted umbilical cord, depriving the fetus of oxygen. Established on June 26, 1945 with the mission of maintaining international peace and security, the United Nations was born deprived of moral oxygen and signs of life. On June 26, 1945, the United Nations emerged stillborn because its five principal organs, established by the United Nations Charter, the General Assembly, the Security Council, the Economic and Social Council, the International Court of Justice and the United Nations Secretariat, included the Soviet Union. The United Nations was born morally dead for the same reason the Allied forces in World War II lacked moral credibility. They lacked moral credibility because they included the Soviet Union. The Big Three, the main Allied Powers, America, Britain and the Soviets, included a nation which was as evil as Hitler's Germany and had institutionalized mass murder on a scale greater than Germany. From the day it was born, the United Nations morally ceased to exist, and its eighty years of official existence has compiled a record of shame and hypocrisy unprecedented in history. Before the Soviet suppression of the anticommunist Forest Brothers in Estonia, Latvia and Lithuania from the late 1940s to the early 1960s, the United Nations stood silent. Before the Soviet suppression of the anticommunist Cursed Soldiers in Poland in the early 1950s, the United Nations stood silent. Before the Soviet suppression of anticommunists in East Germany in 1953, the United Nations stood silent. Before the Soviet suppression of the anticommunist Bulgarian Resistance in the mid 1950s, the United Nations stood silent. Before the Soviet suppression of the anticommunist Hungarian Revolution in 1956, the United Nations stood silent. Before the Soviet suppression of the anticommunist Ukranian Insurgent Army in 1956, the United Nations stood silent. Before the Soviet suppression of the anticommunist Romanian Resistance in the early 1960s, the United Nations stood silent. Before the Soviet suppression of the anticommunist Prague Spring in 1968, the United Nations stood silent. Before the proclamation of the communist People's Republic of China in 1949, the United Nations stood silent. The United Nations did denounce and fight the invasion of South Korea by Soviet and Chinese backed North Korea, but only because the Soviets were boycotting the Security Council over its failure to expel the anticommunist Republic of China from the Security Council and instal Maoist China in its place. Before aggression by Soviet and Chinese backed North Vietnam against anticommunist South Vietnam from 1955 to 1975, the United Nations stood silent. Before the Great Leap Forward led by Mao Zedong in China from 1958 to 1962, which resulted in the deaths of 55 million people and caused the greatest famine in history, known as the Great Chinese Famine, the United Nations stood silent. Before the Great Proletarian Cultural Revolution led by Mao Zedong in China from 1966 to 1976, which resulted in the destruction of national cultural treasures, the ransacking of homes and offices, and the persecution and killing of five million people, the United Nations stood silent. Before the genocide in Cambodia under the Khmer Rouge led by Pol Pot, from 1975 to 1979, which resulted in the deaths of two million people, the United Nations stood silent. The moral death of the United Nations when it was born would lead to eighty years of support for the criminals of the world. It would lead to the establishment of an organization which has been procommunist, anticapitalist, antiliberal, antiWestern, supporting Marxism, Islam and Palestinian terror in the name of "national liberation", and opposed to Israel because it is an outpost of Western liberal democracy and the only free society in the Middle East. On November 10, 1975, on the thirty seventh anniversary of Kristallnacht, a pogrom against Jews in Germany which was a prelude to the Holocaust, the United Nations General Assembly passed Resolution 3379 which proclaimed that zionism, and by extension Western liberal democracy, is a form of racism. At the 1980 World Conference of the United Nations Decade for Women in Copenhagen, the United Nations peddled communism, anticapitalism, antiliberalism, global Islam and Palestinian terror in a call to exterminate Jews and restart Hitler's gas chambers: "Jewish feminists heard truly chilling comments, such as 'The only good Jew is a dead Jew' and 'The only way to rid the world of zionism is to kill all the Jews.' One eyewitness overheard other delegates saying that the American women's movement had a bad name because its most prominent founding figures were all Jewish. The feminist activist Sonia Johnson described the antisemitism at the Copenhagen conference as 'wild and irrational.' The psychologist and author Phyllis Chesler recorded the savage response when one Jewish woman mentioned that her husband had been shot without a trial in Iraq and that she had to escape to Israel with her children. The place went wild: 'Cuba si! Yankee no! PLO! PLO!' they shouted. 'Israel must die!' " (A Lethal Obsession by Robert Wistrich). The United Nations Today. The United Nations today is the United Nations of yesteryear and the United Nations on the first day of its existence, as morally bankrupt as ever, and as dedicated as to the overthrow of liberal democracy. The United Nations today has refused to condemn the shooting, torturing, raping, killing and burning alive of Israelis by Hamas on October 7, 2023. It has refused to condemn Hamas sadism, terror and brutality. It has made a mockery of its motto, Peace, dignity and equality on a healthy planet, by refusing to condemn Muslim swords gleaming with hate, stained with blood and screaming out Allahu Akhbar. It has made a mockery of Article One of its Charter, mandating "the suppression of acts of aggression and other breaches of the peace", by refusing to condemn Hamas aggression against Israel and Hamas celebrations of its psychopathic violence on bodycams and social media. It has refused to condemn Hamas genocide against Jews, the worst violence against Jews since the Holocaust, and its campaign to continue where Hitler's killing left off. It has recognized Palestinian antisemitism and terror as a legitimate nation and granted it full diplomatic recognition. It has made a mockery of the preamble of its Charter, calling on nations to be good neighbors and practice tolerance, by refusing to condemn Iran for its genocidal language and actions against Israel. It has made a mockery of Article 42 of its Charter, demanding that nations settle their disputes by peaceful means, and authorizing the use of force only to roll back aggression and restore peace and security, by storing weapons against Israel, stealing the bodies of murdered Jews, concealing Hamas terror infrastructures, and indoctrinating Palestinian children to hate and kill Jews, through the United Nations Relief and Works Agency for Palestine, and by helping Hezbollah to amass 150,000 missiles against Israel, through the United Nations Interim Force in Lebanon. Peddling hate and lies against Israel by the truckload in countless statements and resolutions, the United Nations has continued its eighty year tradition of treason to the ideals it professes to uphold: "On October 7, 2023, Hamas and Islamic Jihad terrorists invaded southern Israel. They shot, burned alive, tortured, raped and kidnapped Israeli soldiers and civilians, foreign workers, even fellow Arabs. No one was spared—not elderly Holocaust survivors, not infants who were brutally murdered before their parent's eyes. Nationalities from across the globe were represented among the victims. The terrorists documented their atrocities with bodycams. One video shows two terrorists attempting to behead a Thai man with a hoe—turning a garden tool into a weapon of sadistic brutality. His only crime was seeking honest work in Israel's fields. As they struck him repeatedly, one screamed Allahu Akbar. Palestinian terror had become the nihilistic inverse of Isaiah—turning plowshares into swords. It was a day reminiscent of the darkest, most brutal days in history—one that demanded condemnation by all civilized people. The United Nations, whose motto is Peace, dignity and equality on a healthy planet, refused to do so. In late October 2023, the General Assembly passed a resolution calling for the 'immediate cessation of hostilities' but rejected an amendment that would have condemned Hamas' massacre. That moral surrender set the tone for what followed. Since October 7, the Security Council has debated at least fourteen draft resolutions on the Israel–Gaza war, adopting four, while the General Assembly has passed more resolutions on Israel than on any other country during the same period. The sins of the United Nations are not only against Israel—whose rebirth as a nation was approved by the world body in 1949—but against the principles of its own Charter. Article One of the UN Charter mandates 'the suppression of acts of aggression and other breaches of the peace.' Yet following the largest slaughter of Jews since the Holocaust, the United Nations rewarded its perpetrators' cause. In May 2024, Palestine was elevated to near member state status. During the 2025 General Assembly, led by France and Saudi Arabia, several European nations granted full recognition to a Palestinian state. In exchange, Palestinian Authority President Mahmoud Abbas—who has publicly praised the October 7 atrocities—pledged to end stipends to terrorists' families. The payments continue. The Charter's preamble calls for member states to act as 'good neighbors,' practising 'tolerance'—a principle that stands in stark contrast to decades of Iranian genocidal rhetoric, from Ayatollah Khomeini's exhortation to 'destroy Israel' to Iran's ongoing denial of Jewish history and refusal to recognize Israeli statehood. Such violations of the Charter's core principles have faced little meaningful accountability. The iniquity of the United Nations does not end with statements, resolutions, and falsehoods. The Charter demands that 'All Members shall settle their international disputes by peaceful means.' When this fails, Article 42 authorizes the use of armed force to 'maintain or restore international peace and security.' UN missions have not merely failed in their mandate—they enabled the attacks of October 7, actively collaborating with those threatening Israel’s existence. Employees of UNRWA, the UN’s Palestinian refugee agency, participated directly in the October 7 massacre, with one worker stealing a murdered Israeli’s body. This was no aberration—for years, UNRWA facilities stored weapons and concealed tunnel infrastructure, activities the organization’s leadership could not have missed, while its schools indoctrinated children in antisemitic violence. UNIFIL, mandated to prevent Hezbollah’s rearmament in Lebanon, largely turned a blind eye to the terrorist organization’s activities, with documented instances of active collaboration. This enabled Hezbollah to amass an estimated 150,000 missiles along Israel’s northern border." (The Moral Destruction Of The UN Since October 7 by Eli Klein). The United Nations Today. After a dead baby is born, the mother plunges into sadness and grief. Racked with emotional pain, she registers her dead baby's birth, chooses a funeral, organizes a remembrance service and says goodbye. On June 26, 1945, civilized people throughout the world who supported the cause of freedom and the rule of law said goodbye. They said goodbye to an insititution which on that day was born morally dead. They said goodbye to a fraud. They said goodbye to a world organization, ostensibly supporting the cause of world peace and security, in reality supporting the cause of totalitarian tyranny and terror. They said goodbye to a world organization which would over the decades march under the banners of communism, anticapitalism, antiliberalism, antiEnlightenment, antisemitism, antizionism, and global Islam and its networks of mass murder. They held a funeral mourning the death of what might have been. They registered the death in the annals of infamy. This stillbirth and moral death was called the United Nations.

MAYOR MAMDANI LEADS NEW YORK DEATH MARCH

March 8, 1917. Communist revolution breaks out in Russia while its leader watches events unfold like a caged animal from his exile in Switzerland. The moment of truth has arrived, a decision has to be made, and the clock has struck for Vladimir Lenin to come home and lead his revolution. Germany arranges for the safe passage of Lenin to Saint Petersburg, hoping that Lenin would overthrow the proWestern, liberal democratic government of Alexander Kerensky and take Russia out of World War I on the side of the Allies. On April 9, 1917, at Zurich's main railway station, Lenin bids farewell to his comrades and boards a train to Russia. Eight days later, the train journey which shook the twentieth century ends, and 160 million people are led into a totalitarian tyranny without precedent in history. After reaching its destination, Lenin's train ride would continue onward and make stops throughout the world, poison capital cities, and lay the basis for a communist slave empire which would rule one third of the world's population and land mass, reach from China to Eastern Europe to Africa to Latin America, and claim the lives of 100 million people in the greatest holocaust in history. The train would make stops across the free world to cheering masses demanding ever more socialism and welfare statism, would stop in the capital cities of the West, and would bring civilization into a state of moral bankruptcy, producing ever increasing losses of freedom. In the twenty first century, Lenin's train continues its journey and criss crosses the world, greeted by cheering masses at every stop. On January 1, 2026, at an abandoned City Hall subway station in New York City, just after midnight, the train made yet another stop. Lenin walked out yet again, and this time around took an oath of office as the 112th mayor of the city. This time around, Lenin appeared in the person of Zoran Kwame Mamdani, age 34 years old, born in Kampala, Uganda, citizen of Uganda and America, and member of the Democrat Party and the Democratic Socialists of America. In his inaugural address, Mayor elect Mamdani restated the religion set forth in Karl Marx's Communist Manifesto which Lenin's train transmitted to the world, and declared war on the last traces of freedom remaining in America. Mayor elect Mamdani took his oath of office at an abandoned subway station in a city and a nation which long ago had begun abandoning its Enlightenment legacies and constitutional framework, and commenced a journey down into Mamdani's world. On January 1, 2026, Mayor elect Mandani delivered a speech which expressed the state of America and the state of the West, expressing a one hundred year long spectacle of civilizational suicide, the spectacle of a sewer religion being supported by overwhelming majorities, decade after decade. Listen to his speech and hear the death bells toll ever louder for freedom in America, and see the financial and cultural capital of the nation placed under attack as it has never been placed under attack before. Zoran Mamdani. Mayor elect Mamdani proclaims that progressive government is expansive government, untrammeled by constitutional norms. Progressive government is big government, robbing Peter to pay Paul and improve Paul's life. A progressive is a public sector society, exalting the state as great and excellent. Progressive government makes people dependent on its welfare programs from cradle to grave. Progressive government enacts socialism in the name of democracy. Capitalism is a regime made by and for the wealthy and the connected, oppressing and exploiting the struggling poor. Socialism is a system for working people, while capitalism is a system for the rich who do not work, and make their money stealing profits from the working people. Socialism is a system for consumers and employees, while capitalism is a system for corporations which defraud consumers and employees. Capitalism is a system of corporate greed which bleeds the proletariat white by its relentless pursuit of shareholder value. Capitalism is a system of social and economic inequality and injustice. Socialism alone provides safety, affordability and abundance to the people. The system of individual rights and freedoms is cold and inhuman, while the system of human enslavment to a god called the Collective alone is just and benevolent. Progressive government abolishes individual freedom and enforces a religion of mystical social solidarity. Progressive government abolishes constitutional rights by the ballot box, and is a system of democratically imposed tyranny, voted on from the streets, curbs, shops, warehouses and taxi depots of society. Progressive government establishes socialism as a New Deal for the workers. Progressive government establishes socialism in the name of restoring connections between people, lost with the advent of free societies, and ending the social isolation produced by freedom. Progressive government provides free childcare and free mass transit by taxing the producers of all they are worth and taxing them out of existence. Progressive government controls rents and nationalizes landlords. Progressive government is a democratic socialist, democratic communist and democratic fascist government. Capitalism is a system run by billionaires and oligarchs, lording over the people. Progressive government is a brazen, unashamed leftist government and radical government which provides the necessities of life to people from wealth confiscated from the talent and successful members of society. Progressive government enforces socialism in every home, borough and bistro in society because socialism along belongs to the people, and alone gives them health, happiness and hope for the future: "My fellow New Yorkers—today begins a new era. I thank the labor and movement leaders here today, the activists and elected officials who will return to fighting for New Yorkers the second this ceremony concludes, and the performers who have gifted us with their talent. Beginning today, we will govern expansively and audaciously. We may not always succeed. But never will we be accused of lacking the courage to try. To those who insist that the era of big government is over, hear me when I say this—no longer will City Hall hesitate to use its power to improve New Yorkers' lives. For too long, we have turned to the private sector for greatness, while accepting mediocrity from those who serve the public. I cannot blame anyone who has come to question the role of government, whose faith in democracy has been eroded by decades of apathy. We will restore that trust by walking a different path—one where government is no longer solely the final recourse for those struggling, one where excellence is no longer the exception. As we embark upon this work, let us advance a new answer to the question asked of every generation: Who does New York belong to? For much of our history, the response from City Hall has been simple: it belongs only to the wealthy and well connected, those who never strain to capture the attention of those in power. Working people have reckoned with the consequences. Crowded classrooms and public housing developments where the elevators sit out of order; roads littered with potholes and buses that arrive half an hour late, if at all; wages that do not rise and corporations that rip off consumers and employees alike. And still—there have been brief, fleeting moments where the equation changed. Twelve years ago, Bill de Blasio stood where I stand now as he promised to 'put an end to economic and social inequalities' that divided our city into two. Over the years to come, my administration will resurrect that legacy. City Hall will deliver an agenda of safety, affordability, and abundance—where government looks and lives like the people it represents, never flinches in the fight against corporate greed, and refuses to cower before challenges that others have deemed too complicated. We will replace the frigidity of rugged individualism with the warmth of collectivism. If our campaign demonstrated that the people of New York yearn for solidarity, then let this government foster it. Because no matter what you eat, what language you speak, how you pray, or where you come from—the words that most define us are the two we all share: New Yorkers. When we won the primary last June, there were many who said that these aspirations and those who held them had come out of nowhere. Yet one man's nowhere is another man's somewhere. This movement came out of 8 and a half million somewheres—taxi cab depots and Amazon warehouses, Democratic Socialists of America meetings and curbside domino games. The powers that be had looked away from these places for quite some time—if they'd known about them at all—so they dismissed them as nowhere. Here, where the language of the New Deal was born, we will return the vast resources of this city to the workers who call it home. Not only will we make it possible for every New Yorker to afford a life they love once again—we will overcome the isolation that too many feel, and connect the people of this city to one another. The cost of childcare will no longer discourage young adults from starting a family—because we will deliver universal childcare for the many by taxing the wealthiest few. Those in rent stabilized homes will no longer dread the latest rent hike—because we will freeze the rent. Getting on a bus without worrying about a fare hike or whether you'll be late to your destination will no longer be deemed a small miracle—because we will make buses fast and free. Here is what I want you to expect from the administration that this morning moved into the building behind me. We will transform the culture of City Hall from one of 'no' to one of 'how?' We will answer to all New Yorkers, not to any billionaire or oligarch who thinks they can buy our democracy. We will govern without shame and insecurity, making no apology for what we believe. I was elected as a Democratic socialist and I will govern as a Democratic socialist." (Mayor Zohran Mamdani Inaugural Address, January 1, 2026, ny.gov). Zoran Mamdani. On April 16, 1917, a strain of typhoid arrived in Saint Petersburg and began spreading across the nation, erupting in red spots in every home, school, office and business. Stepping out of a sealed railway car, this human bacterium and high priest of Marxism gathered his coreligionists together and destroyed every last trace of freedom in Russia. On January 1, 2026, Comrade Lenin become Comrade Mamdani, mayor elect of New York City, and went to work under a new Red Star, steering the city into slavery.

THE MAD WORLD OF MARXISM

It turns out that Hitler and his minions believed a lot of crazy ideas, ones that went well beyond crackpot notions of racial purity that were better suited to raising chickens than human beings. They lived in a dark mental universe of pseudoscience: notions of blood purity and mystical grails, astrology, parapsychology, Neopaganism, even World Ice Theory (or 'glacial cosmogony'), the belief that ice is the basic substance of the universe, that 'icy moons had crashed into Earth' in ancient times, and that the cataclysm had destroyed a human civilization that had already achieved a high level of development—all, it must be added, without a shred of fossil evidence. (Hitler's Monsters by Robert Citini, National WWII Museum). Pseudoscience and antiscience. Mysticism and the occult. Mental Illness and detachment from reality. The satanic world of Marxism and its offshoots covers the late modern age in a shroud of moral death. The rejection of reason has been the cause of civilizational collapse throughout history, and in the West it commenced its journey at the dawn of the twentieth century. The rejection of reason and the embrace of religion is the preeminent disease of the masses, and when it struck the West over a century ago, it sent this storied culture, which ascended to heights of achievement during the Scientific Revolution, the Industrial Revolution and the Age of Enlightenment, on a downward trajectory reminiscent of the fall of Rome. The most popular religion embraced by the masses is a this worldly version of Christianity, replacing the Christian God with a god called the Collective, and this religion founded by Karl Marx in the nineteenth century has captured the hearts and minds of the masses looking for a crutch to lean on in life, unable to function by their own rational resources, and yearning to place blind faith in something. In the early twentieth century, Marxism produced an offshoot called national socialism whose prophet was Hitler, and in the mid 1960s, obeying the relentless logic of tribalism, it produced still more offshoots, and produced a multigorgon monster called gender, race, class, culture, ethnicity and sexual orientation politics, which would become a synoymn and byword for the Western cultural and political establishment. In the twenty first century, Marxist identity politics is in high gear, producing a luxuriant garden of mental destruction, appearing in a plethora of shapes and forms, painting a portrait of a civilization in a state of free fall. The World Today. Look at the world today and see the promotion of race and gender politics, queer politics, drag queen politics, and the politics of transgenderism, which denies, in defiance of science, that human gender is determined by DNA, and proclaims that gender can be changed at will: "Harvard University appointed Kareem Khubchandani, a Tufts University associate professor who performs as the drag queen LaWhore Vagistan, as a visiting professor in its Women, Gender, and Sexuality department for this academic year. Khubchandani will teach Queer Ethnography this fall and RuPaulitics: Drag, Race, and Desire in the spring, according to an announcement from Harvard. 'This class introduces students in Women, Gender, and Sexuality Studies to ethnographic research methods as they pertain to exploring questions of bodies, pleasure, power and desire,' the class description for Queer Ethnography states. In the RuPaulitics class, students will examine 'contemporary and historical drag archives, as well as critical readings on race and gender' to gain 'robust tools to analyze drag, live performance, and queer and trans cultures more broadly', according to its description. The professor is known to lecture in his drag queen persona, the New York Post reported." (Harvard Hires Drag Queen 'LaWhore Vagistan' To Teach 'Queer Ethnography' by Gabrielle Temaat). The World Today. Look at the world today and see the promotion of feminist politics. See the promotion of lesbian politics. See the promotion of canine politics. See the promotion of sex between lesbians and dogs, bisexuals and dogs, and transgenders and dogs. See the promotion of the politics of humans and animals installed with machine parts: "Relationships between dogs, cyborgs, and lesbian feminists are the subject of a new scholarly paper by a State University of New York professor. Published March 8 in the Journal of Lesbian Studies, the title of the analysis is Queer Canine Becomings: Lesbian Feminist Cyborg Politics And Interspecies Intimacies In Ecologies Of Love And Violence. The author, Chloe Diamond-Lenow is an assistant professor of women's and gender studies at SUNY Oneonta, and uses the pronouns she/they, according to her bio on the public university website. Basically, the professor's argument seems to boil down to this: Dogs provide a positive relational experience for many LGBTQ people. However, the government also uses dogs and robodogs, or cyborgs, to commit unjust violence against marginalized people. Therefore, the relationships between dogs and humans are complex. According to the abstract, the paper offers a 'queer lesbian feminist analysis" of 'lesbian queer trans canine relationalities' and 'the interconnected queer becomings of people, nature, animals, and machines amidst ecologies of love and violence in the 2020s.' 'The entanglements of violence and love in these queer dog relationalities provide insights into the complexities of queer and lesbian feminist world building. Lesbian and queer feminist cyborg politics can help theorize the potentials and challenges of these interspecies entanglements,' Diamond-Lenow writes." (SUNY Professor Explores 'Queer Canine' And Lesbian Feminist Cyborg Politics' by Micaiah Bilger). The World Today. Look at the world today and see it condemn Western literary classics as voices of white supremacy. See it condemn the notions of objective truth and morality as engines of Western imperialism and Eurocentrism. See it promote black racial supremacy in the name of Black Lives Matter. See it promote black politics, black literature, black curriculums and black professors. See it promote racism against whites in the name of inclusion. See it condemn the notions of human essentialism and universality as products of white male thinking: "Loyola University Maryland's Department of English recently announced its commitment to 'antiracism', claiming literature promotes 'white supremacy.' 'Literature and the literary canons have been used to validate white supremacy', the department's website states. As a result, the department will 'reflect on what it means to be called an English Department given the discipline's roots in imperialism and Eurocentrism', and 'will consider renaming', according to the website. The website also states that its faculty play a role 'in creating inclusive spaces at the university and in actively challenging any form of white supremacy.' The department affirms that 'Black Lives Matter', 'racism is based in white supremacy', and 'confronting racism requires that we actively facilitate conversations about it in the classroom.' Moreover, the English department made a promise to 'acknowledge the centrality of whiteness in the history and evolution of literary canons'. As a result, the department said it will immediately hire a professor of African American literature and include more authors of color in their curriculum. It will examine all classes and commit to 'making antiracist teaching central in each one.' What's more, the department promises to 'avoid centering the experiences of white students' in the classroom by 'interrogating the presumed invisibility of whiteness in the classroom and the concept of the universal reader as always being white and male.'" (Loyola Maryland English Dept Says Literature Built On 'White Supremacy', May Rename Program by Nathaniel Krenik). The World Today. Look at the world today and see the voices of freedom and constitutional rights threatened, assaulted, defaced, vandalized, silenced, torn down and thrown into toilets: "A Young Americans for Freedom leader at Gettysburg College expressed frustration with the on going hostility directed at the club on campus, including the destruction of dozens of fliers leading up to an event this week. 'I would approximate around 80-90% of our flyers get torn down or defaced in one way or another within 12 hours of us putting them up,' Nick Alverson, chapter vice chairman, told The College Fix in an email Thursday. In the most recent incident, YAF students posted fliers across campus advertising an event Thursday with conservative author Vince Ellison. The event, 'Everything you've been taught about race relations is wrong', was hosted by the YAF chapter with funding approved by the student government. Earlier this week, the chapter posted several photos and a video on X showing its fliers torn down at various locations across campus. Ahead of the event, Ellison, a conservative author and singer, also drew attention to the hostility directed at the club. 'You can tear down the flyers all you want to, but no one silences MY voice. Only cowardly leftists respond this way', he wrote on X. Alverson told The Fix that he and other YAF students replaced the fliers repeatedly over the past week, but they kept getting torn down– 'sometimes within 20 minutes before we are even done posting in the building.' Meanwhile, a spokesperson for Gettysburg College confirmed that it is looking into the incidents.'We are aware and investigating', college spokesperson Jamie Yates said Thursday when contacted by The Fix. However, Alverson expressed frustration with the private college, saying YAF's activities repeatedly are targets of vandalism and hostility. 'Every semester, it is the exact same issue with only our posters being defaced, and the college has yet to implement any initiative on their part for preventative measures and seems to rely on reactive measures', he said.'To my knowledge, the college gave one student a warning last year after being caught on camera.' " (Conservative Students' Fliers Ripped Down, Thrown In Toilet At Gettysburg College by Micaiah Bilger). The World Today. The rejection of reason means the acceptance of faith and force. It means the enforcement of belief systems devoid of evidence at the point of a gun. It means the rule of mysticism, the claim to a nonsensory and nonrational means of knowledge, and the rule of insanity, imposed on every sector of society. In the twenty first century, an ever expanding universe of Marxist tribal religions is overrunning civilization.

TRUMP LIBERATES VENEZUELA

Civilized people have known for thousands of years that the right of national self determination is not absolute but conditional upon the moral character of the nation. They have known that a nation which violates the rights of its own citizens cannot claim the right of national self determination. They have known that nations which enslave their own citizens, invade their citizens' lives, liberties and property, and violate the rights of free minds and free markets, are immoral, illegitimate, outlaw nations which have no rights against external invasion or attack. Such nations are in essence animal hordes, assemblages of mobs, gangsters, marauders and killers, and are devoid of national rights. A right of self determination held to reside in a totalitarian prison state such as the former Soviet Union is meaningless, misplaced and mad, and provides a green light to the forces of evil and criminality. A free nation has the right to invade it if and when its rational interests dictate. On January 3, 2026, at 2 AM local time, America launched a series of airstrikes in Venezuala in order to capture President Nicolas Maduro and overthrow the government. Codenamed Operation Absolute Resolve and ordered by Donald Trump, the military actions removed a Marxist dictator and drug trafficker in an attempt to restore freedom, democracy and the rule of law. Nicolas Maduro. The Venezuelan government under Nicolas Maduro committed crimes against humanity. It persecuted and imprisoned antiMarxists. It engaged in arbitrary detentions of the defenders of human rights and deprived them of medical care. It made the opponents of the government disappear. It committed acts of repression against the voices of criticism and dissent. It jailed members of the opposition and held them incommunicado. It gunned down protestors in the streets. It turned justice and morality on their head, made political opponents victims of framed and fabricated charges, turned the military against the traditions and constitution of law, and declared war on people who yearned to live in freedom: "The Government of Venezuela continues to engage in actions constituting the crime against humanity of persecution on political grounds, committed in connection with the crime of imprisonment or severe deprivation of physical liberty and other crimes, the UN Fact Finding Mission (FFM) on Venezuela said in its latest update on the country’s human rights situation. In its presentation today to the Human Rights Council in Geneva, the Fact Finding Mission reported that arbitrary detentions of persons perceived as opponents to the Government, including members of the political opposition as well as human rights defenders and journalists, continue. Nongovernmental sources have documented at least 42 arrests between September and December 2024 and 84 more during the first 15 days of January 2025. Some of these may constitute short term enforce disappearances. 'The Venezuelan Government continues to orchestrate a harsh repression against persons perceived as political opponents or simply because they express dissent or critical views against the authorities,' said Marta Valinas, Chair of the FFM. 'This is part of the same course of conduct that the FFM previously characterised as crimes against humanity.' The FFM expressed concern about the detention of at least 150 foreign nationals accused of participating in conspiracies against the Government. The fate and whereabouts of these individuals are unknown to their families and to the authorities in their countries of origin. 'Diplomatic efforts to attempt to communicate with detained persons are ignored by the Government of Nicolas Maduro, contrary to international law', said Francisco Cox. 'Detainees are held in strict incommunicado regimes in violation of national and international laws.' The FFM also provided further details to the Council about one of the postelectoral protests that took place in July 2024 in Aragua state, where seven people were killed. The FFM confirmed that shots were fired at demonstrators without prior warning from inside a military facility, where members of the Army and the National Bolivarian Guard in charge of controlling the protest were located. 'The FFM has identified four generals who were involved in the public order control operation of this protest, and two senior officers who were inside the military installation from which gunshots were fired at protesters', said Patricia Tappata, an FFM Expert. 'The State of Venezuela must investigate this incident, bring to justice those found responsible and provide reparations to victims.' The FFM requested that the Human Rights Council urge Venezuela’s Government to immediately and unconditionally release all arbitrarily detained individuals, as well as to provide them with adequate and timely medical care while they remain in detention." Against Humanity Ongoing Fact Finding Mission Says, Office of the High Commissioner for Human Rights, March 18, 2025). Nicolas Maduro. The Venezualan government under Nicolas Maduro was a drug trafficking, organized crime operation. It was a national guard of political corruption. It was a black sun of narcotics smuggling. It was one of the world's largest suppliers of vice and crime. It was a Marxist guerrilla organization. It was an ally and promoter of Marxist world revolution. It was a national cocaine transit operation. It was a safe haven for Marxist criminals, ideologues, revolutionaries and drug traffickers. It was a major partner in drug mafia violence. It was a drug superpower with smuggling routes spanning the world. It was a military and police organization flooding America with hundred of thousands kilograms of cocaine. It was a major entry and exit point for a global flow of drugs. It was an octopus of drug violence and conspiracy, headed by Nicolas Maduro, whose tentacles reached into every home, school, office and business in society: "The term Cartel de los Soles first emerged in the early 1990s. It was coined by the Venezuelan media in the wake of drug trafficking allegations against a general in charge of counternarcotic operations in Venezuela's National Guard and referred to the sun shaped insignia worn by generals on their epaulettes to indicate their rank. Raul Benitez-Manau, an organized crime expert from Mexico's UNAM university, says the group's activities started in the late 1980s and early 1990s in response to developments in neighbouring Colombia, the world's largest producer of cocaine. At the time, the powerful Medellín Cartel, based in the Colombian city of the same name, was being dismantled and a major counternarcotics offensive in the country was bearing fruit. As established smuggling routes came under pressure, Mr Benitez-Manau argues, the Cartel de los Soles began providing alternative ways to transport cocaine from Colombia. It then strengthened during the early years of the presidency of Hugo Chavez, the left wing president who led Venezuela from 1999 to his death in 2013, he says. 'Chavez liked to challenge the United States, and cut all military cooperation ties between the Venezuelan army and the US', he explains. Without the oversight of the US Drug Enforcement Administration (DEA), 'some [Venezuelan] army officers felt free to do business with criminals', Mr Benitez-Manau says. Chavez's sympathies with Colombia's left wing Farc guerrillas--which financed themselves largely through cocaine smuggling--were another factor in rerouting some drug trafficking through Venezuela, he says. Facing military pressure at home, the guerrilla group moved some operations into Venezuela, safe in the knowledge that the Venezuelan president 'saw them as leftist ideological allies', Mr Benitez-Manau explains. Wesley Tabor, a former DEA agent who worked in Venezuela, says the Farc not only found 'a safe haven in Venezuela' but also many government officials, 'from street level police to the military aviation', soon became their partners in drug trafficking. Together, they 'began flooding the US with hundreds of tonnes of cocaine', he says. Mid and lower ranking officers who control Venezuela's key entry and exit points, such as airports, make up the Cartel de los Soles, Mr Benitez-Manau says, as they are in prime position to facilitate the flow of drugs. But US officials are adamant that the tentacles of the Cartel de los Soles reach to the highest levels of the Maduro government, including the president himself. In 2020, the US justice department accused Maduro and 14 others of conspiring with armed Colombian groups to ship cocaine to the United States. Among the high ranking officials named were Defence Minister Vladimir Padrino and the former head of Venezuela's Supreme Court, Maikel Moreno. In the indictment, US prosecutors also alleged that since at least 1999, the Cartel de los Soles was led and administered by Maduro, Interior Minister Diosdado Cabello, former military intelligence chief Hugo Carvajal, and former General Clíver Alcala. They say information provided by former high ranking Venezuelan military officials--including Carvajal and Alcala--backs this up. Leamsy Salazar, a former security chief for the late Hugo Chavez, provided US officials with information about the Cartel de los Soles as early as 2014. Salazar, who had left Venezuela with the help of the DEA, said Interior Minister Cabello led the Cartel de los Soles." (What Is Cartel De Los Soles, Which The US Is Labelling As A Terrorist Organization? by Norberto Paredes). Nicolas Maduro. The Venezualan government under Nicolas Maduro presided over an oil sector confiscated from American companies. It presided over oil contracts broken, mafia style, at the point of a gun. It presided over billions of dollars stolen from the American economy, a theft condemned by international courts: "US oil companies like Chevron began drilling in Venezuela about one hundred years ago and played a key role in developing the country's oil sector. But around 2004 to 2007, then President Hugo Chavez 'basically forcefully renegotiated contracts' with international oil companies, says Francisco Monaldi, director of the Latin America Energy Program at the Center for Energy Studies at Rice University. ExxonMobil and ConocoPhillips left the country in 2007 and then took the Venezuelan government to international arbitration courts. The courts ordered Venezuela to pay ConocoPhillips over $10 billion and ExxonMobil over $1 billion. Venezuela has only paid a fraction of those sums to ExxonMobil and to ConocoPhillips. " (Trump Wants US Oil Companies In Venezuela. Here's What To Know by Julia Simon). Nicolas Maduro. For thousands of years, human history has been stained by slave pens. The Communist Bloc. National socialist Germany. Charnel houses of fear and control which drowned nations in rivers of blood. On January 3, 2026, the leader of an international Marxist cocaine trafficking operation, a leader without moral or political legitimacy, belonging to the ranks of history's most egregious villains, was captured and flown out of his nation to face the bar of justice. On January 3, 2026, Donald Trump rescued Venezuela from Nicolas Maduro.

REDS STEAL 2020 PRESIDENTIAL ELECTION

He was the leader of the 1917 Communist Revolution in Russia and the founder of the international communist movement in the twentieth century. He condemned democracy as a "dictatorship of the bourgeois" and sought to establish in its place a dictatorship in the hands of Soviet power. Marching under the slogan All Power to the Soviets and People's Democracy, Vladimir Lenin dissolved the democratically elected Constituent Assembly after its first day in session in January 1918, and established a one party communist state. The aftermath of Lenin's revolution in Russia saw the establishment of a totalitarian government ruled by the Communist Party which would direct a global slave empire and claim the lives of 100 million people. The spirit of Lenin, the spirit of Marxist opposition to democracy and Marxist worship of a god called the Collective, migrated across the world in the twentieth century, fueled by the human sewers flowing through the late modern age, and one hundred years after Lenin abolished democracy in Russia, in a land 8000 kilometers away from Lenin's Motherland, it set up shop and committed the crime of the century. One hundred years after Lenin established "Soviet democracy" and a "dictatorship of the proletariat" over the rights of the individual, the spirit of Lenin has descended on the United States of America, and in the 2020 presidential elections, it stole victory from Donald Trump and made Joe Biden president. One hundred years after Lenin abolished democracy in Russia as reactionary and antiproletarian, his spirit returned and inhabited the former beacon of the free world. America's descent into Marxism in the 2020 election was one hundred years in the making, fueled by the nation's political and cultural establishment voted on by the masses, and provides a terrifying illustration of the truth that the mightiest tree in a forest will crash if sufficiently rotted and decayed from within. The 2020 Presidential Election. Look at the 2020 presidential election and see Dominion Voting Systems delete 2.7 million votes for Donald Trump. See it switch 435,000 votes from Trump to Joe Biden. See it switch 221,000 votes in Pennsylvania from Trump to Biden, and delete 941,000 votes. See it refuse to count legal votes for Trump while counting illegal votes for Biden. See its software and hardware manipulated to manufacture votes for Biden: "Appearing Friday on AM news/talk radio station WBAP 820*,* Texas Attorney General Ken Paxton said Lone Star State officials rejected the use of Dominion voting systems—a ballot counting software used in multiple states for 2020 presidential election—due to its 'vulnerability to fraud and unauthorized manipulation.' Texas rejected using Dominion voting systems in 2019 after finding 'multiple hardware and software issues that preclude the Office of the Texas Secretary of State from determining that the Democracy Suite 5.5-A system satisfies each of the voting system requirements set forth in the Texas Election Code.' RICK ROBERTS: Among the accusations of not counting enough ballots or counting illegal ballots and not counting the ballot thing—I don't know if we'll ever come to any resolution to everyone's satisfaction—but a lot has been talked about these voting systems and the software, especially with Dominion. And you've got a little knowledge with that, don't you? TEXAS ATTORNEY GENERAL KEN PAXTON: Texas looked at Dominion for the voting systems. It goes through both the Texas Secretary of State and also the Texas Attorney General's office. We have had these things tested and they have failed every time. We have not approved these voting systems based on repeated software and hardware issues. It was determined they were not accurate and that they failed—they had a vulnerability to fraud and unauthorized manipulation." (AG Paxton: Texas Rejected Dominion Software Due To 'Vulnerability To Fraud And Unauthorized Manipulation' by Joshua Caplan). The 2020 Presidential Election. Look at the 2020 presidential election and see people vote in states in which they were not residents. See votes manufactured in nursing homes. See illegal mail in votes counted for Joe Biden. See Dominion Voting System manufacture votes by the millions for Biden: "Thursday on Fox News Channel's Haninity, Representative Matt Gaetz (R-FL) was critical of how votes were counted in last week's presidential election. 'Here's what we know: The chairman of the Federal Election Commission said there was fraud in this election, and when you take the mail in ballots and balance them against the registry of people who changed their addresses, you see there are tens of thousands of people, 17,000 alone in Georgia, who actually moved and then voted in the state that that they moved from,' he said. 'You know, Reince [Reince Priebus] mentioned these nursing home mystery votes coming in, and the state of Pennsylvania, more people over the age of 90 registered to vote in 2020 than in like the prior four years combined. I call it the Dorothy effect, this notion that there was an immediate interest and surge of voters over the age of 90 during a pandemic. We have yet to find one nursing home where these Democratic registrations were occurring in mass that seems to suggest that those ballots may have been turned in by someone other than the person they were addressed to.' 'Now, this isn't impossible to fix. In Florida, we have a standard that requires a review of those mail in ballots before Election Day. That way, you're able to give them greater scrutiny and ensure a proper scrutiny. But here's one thing I know, Sean, those Dominion software systems, they changed more votes than Vladimir Putin ever did, and we spent four years and tens of millions of dollars over this fiction of Russian collusion with a Trump campaign. I'd say a few more weeks ensuring we had a fair election in 2020 is worth this great nation's time.' " (GOP Representative Gaetz: 'Those Dominion Software Systems—They Changed More Votes Than Vladimir Putin Ever Did by Jeff Poor). The 2020 Presidential Election. Look at the 2020 presidential election and see 315,000 illegal votes for Joe Biden certified. See election workers fail to sign vote tabulation tapes as required by election rules. See election workers fail to print closing tapes at the end of the voting day. See election workers fail to print and sign a zero tape showing that voting machines start at zero votes, and see the machines start with extra nonexistent votes cast for Biden: "Earlier this month, Fulton County admitted that approximately 315,000 early votes from the 2020 election were illegally certified but were nonetheless still included in the final results of that election. The admission came during a December 9 hearing before the Georgia State Election Board (SEB) stemming from a challenge filed by David Cross, a local election integrity activist. Cross filed a challenge with the SEB in March 2022. Cross alleged that Fulton County violated Georgia election rules in the handling of advanced voting ahead of the November 2020 election, counting hundreds of thousands of votes even though polling workers failed to sign off on the vote tabulation tapes critical to the certification process. And Fulton County admitted to it. Ann Brumbaugh, attorney for the Fulton County Board of Registration and Elections, told the SEB in the hearing that the county does 'not dispute that the tapes were not signed.' Brumbaugh continued, 'It was a violation of the rule. We, since 2020, again, we have new leadership and a new building and a new board and a new standard operating procedures. And since then the training has been enhanced. But we don't dispute the allegation from the 2020 election.' Georgia's Secretary of State Office investigated the alleged failure to sign tabulation tapes and 'substantiated' the findings that Fulton County 'violated Official Election Record Document Processes when it was discovered that thirty six (36) out of thirty seven (37) Advanced Voting Precincts in Fulton County, Georgia failed to sign the Tabulation Tapes as required [by SEB rules],' according to a 2024 investigation summary. In addition to probing the unsigned tabulation tapes, the investigation also found that officials at 32 polling sites failed to verify their zero tapes. Georgia election rules require hat election officials have each ballot scanner print three closing tapes at the end of each voting day. Poll workers must sign these tapes or include a documented reason for refusal. Voting rules also require poll workers to begin each day of voting by printing and signing a 'zero tape' showing that voting machines are starting at zero votes. If there is no record of whether the tabulator was set at zero at the start of polling, there is no way of telling whether ballots from a previous election (or ballots from a test run) were left on the memory card and might later be counted. Notably, this happened in Montana, where officials discovered more votes than were cast and believe the votes were leftover sample data that had not been cleared. 'These signed tapes are the sole legal certification that the reported totals are authentic,' Cross told the SEB at the December 9 hearing. 'Fulton County produced zero signed tabulator tapes in early voting.' Cross stated that he obtained 77 megabytes of election records from Fulton County through an open records request that cost $15,800. According to Cross, these included 134 tabulator tapes, representing 315,000 votes. Each signature block on these tapes was blank, Cross said." (Fulton County: 'We Don't Dispute' 315,000 Votes Lacking Poll Workers' Signatures Were Counted In 2020 by Brianna Lyman). The 2020 Presidential Election. Confronted with election fraud involving mail in votes, unverified votes, and electronic vote switching and vote deletion, and confronted with a refusal by the United States Supreme Court to hear cases of fraud on their merits, a massive crowd of patriotic Americans led by Donald Trump stormed the United States Capital Building on January 6, 2021 in an attempt to stop the certification of Joe Biden. The attack lasted for four hours and the attackers succeeded in delaying the certification by twenty four hours. From 12 PM on January 6 to 12 PM on January 7, Donald Trump stopped the wheels of the federal government. For twenty four hours, he stopped the wheels of a statist, welfarist, regulatory regime which peddled its statism, welfarism and regulations as the highest forms of progressivism. For twenty four hours, he stopped the roaring engine of a federal leviathan, and in the silence let the sounds of freedom be heard. They were heard in the hush of a totalitarian machine temporarily smashed, and they were heard by freedom lovers throughout the world. These sounds, these shots, these celebrations of freedom are Trump's greatest legacy.

HARVARD RALLIES ON RED SQUARE

It is 73,000 square kilometers and lies east of the Kremlin and north of the Moskva River. The central attraction and place of worship in the Communist Bloc, Red Square was the scene of executions, demonstrations, riots, parades and speeches in praise of a communist god called the Collective, and it housed the communist dead, worshiped in Lenin's Mausoleum and the Kremlin Wall Necropolis. In the twenty first century, this official address of the former Soviet government has become the dark symbol of a private Ivy League university located in Cambridge, Massachusetts, the oldest and most prestigious university in America, and among the most prestigious universities in the world. In a terrifying illustration of how the mightiest tree in the forest will fall if it is sufficiently rotted and decayed from within, the fall of Harvard University, founded in 1636 by the colonial era Massachusetts General Court, named after the Puritan minister John Harvard who bequeathed to it a vast sum of money, the wealthiest university in the world with an endowment of 54 billion dollars, and home to the world's largest university library, is a clanging bell symbolizing the fall of the West in the twenty first century. Among the world's greatest universities in influence, wealth and rankings, Harvard University is a portrait of America and the West in their descent into the Red Square of the twenty first century, and its four hundred year old motto Veritas or Truth has become a dead letter and brazen lie propagated by the wealthiest, most influential and most prestigious propaganda organ in the American cultural establishment. Look at an institution which graduated 200 living billionaires, eight American presidents, twenty four heads of state, Nobel laureates, Fields Medallists, MacArthur Fellows, Rhodes Scholars, Marshall Scholars, Turing Award winners, Pulitzer Prize winners, Fulbright Scholars and founders of major global corporations, descend in the twenty first century into a bankrupt shadow its former self. See it change its traditional brand identity colors, red, white and black, into a rainbow flag and Soviet Red Star, signifying a Marxist. civilizational end stage politics of gender, race, class, culture, ethnicity and sexual orientation. Harvard Today. Harvard today has declared war on Western, liberal, Enlightenment civilization. It rejects qualified, outstanding students and professors because they are white males. It promotes antiliberal, antiEnlightenment cultures as superior to the West. It promotes barbarism as superior to civilization. It worships the jungles and steppes of Asia and Africa. It replaces rational, liberal pedagogy with Marxist, Islamist, Eastern, Silk Road propaganda. In the name of global history, it seeks to deny, decenter and destroy the human achievements of centuries in the West, and to train students to hate and subvert free societies under the flags of Marxist and Islamist revolution: "A longtime Harvard University professor has penned an essay that outs the institution for, among other things, rejecting brilliant minds because they're white males, as well as no long supporting a curriculum that teaches the virtues of Western Civilization. History Professor James Hankins in his piece for Compact title Why I Am Leaving Harvard, explains that his decision after working at the Ivy League institution for 40 years comes after watching his place of employment devolve on many levels: 'In reviewing graduate student applicants in the fall of 2020 I came across an outstanding prospect who was a perfect fit for our program. In past years this candidate would have risen immediately to the top of the applicant pool. In 2021, however, I was told informally by a member of the admissions committee that 'that' (meaning admitting a white male) was 'not happening this year.' In the same year a certifiably brilliant undergraduate I had tutored, who was literally the best student at Harvard—he won the prize for the graduating senior with the best overall academic record—was rejected from all the graduate programs to which he applied. He too was a white male. I called around to friends at several universities to find out why on earth he had been rejected. Everywhere it was the same story: Graduate admissions committees around the country had been following the same unspoken protocol as ours. The one exception I found to the general exclusion of white males had begun life as a female.' Hankins also wrote about the embrace of globalism at Harvard. As reported by Real Clear Politics: 'We have not hired with tenure a historian in a Western field—ancient, medieval, early modern or modern—in a decade,' Hankins says about his Harvard department, which in that time 'lost eight senior historians in Western fields—all major figures—through death, retirement or departure for other universities. I will be the ninth, and I am not expecting to be replaced. The loss isn't just Harvard's: 'the replacement of Western history by global history' has done 'serious harm to the socialization of young Americans', the historian warns in Compact magazine. 'When you don't teach the young what civilization is, it turns out, people become uncivilized.' In the 40 years Hankins taught at Harvard, he saw his profession shift its focus from European civilization to cultures once considered barbarian: 'In this absurdist rendering of world history, Central Asian peoples', for example, 'are presented as the drivers of cultural innovation, spreading their benign influence east and west via the Silk Road.' This is marketed as 'decentering the West,' where Western countries are literally put in their place as an ugly growth on the back side of Eurasia.' Hankins is now a visiting professor at the University of Florida's Hamilton School of Classical and Civic Education. 'The reason why is that the Hamilton School is committed to teaching the history of Western civilization. When late liberal pedagogy replaced Western civilization courses with global history, serious harm was done to the socialization of young Americans. When you don't teach the young what civilization is, it turns out, people become uncivilized,' he wrote in his Compact essay." (Harvard Whistleblower: White Males Rejected, Institution Abandons Western Civ by Jennifer Kabbany).

Harvard Today. Harvard today enforces policies of racial discrimination in student admissions in defiance of the Constitution and the Supreme Court. It promotes Jew hatred and opposition to Israel in its war against Western liberal democracy. In the name of academic freedom, it promotes a Marxist-Islamist axis seeking to sweep away free societies and establish a global caliphate of communism and the Community of the Faithful: "Some faculty members at Harvard, the elite university that refused to comply with demands for reforms to stop racial discrimination, are donating 10 percent of their salaries to fight President Donald Trump. The more than 80 faculty have said they will give the portion of their pay for up to a year to support the 'resistance' against the president after his administration froze $2.2. billion grants, The Harvard Crimson reported on April 30. he article continued: 'If we as a faculty are asking the University administration to resist the Trump administration's attacks on academic freedom, we should also be willing to share in the financial sacrifice that will be necessary', Harvard Kennedy School professor Dani Rodrik '79, a signatory, wrote in an emailed statement. The pledged donations come as Harvard faces lean times and continuing attacks on its funding. The Trump administration froze $2.2 billion in federal funding on April 15, as well as an additional $1 billion on April 21 after Harvard publicly rejected the White House's sweeping demands for policy changes at the University.' According to Breitbart News, Harvard said it would not comply with demands for reforms to halt antisemitism and other forms of discrimination and it is one of several other universities being watched by a federal antisemitism task force. Harvard argued reforms in those areas should not be linked to federal funding. The university has since filed a lawsuit against the Trump administration. 'According to the New York Times, the lawsuit filed in federal court on Monday accused the Trump administration of launching an unfounded attack as 'leverage to gain control of academic decision making at Harvard,' citing other universities that allegedly had funds cut,' the Breitbart News report said." (Over 80 Harvard Faculty To Donate Portion Of Salaries In 'Resistance' Against President Donald Trump by Amy Furr). Harvard Today. Marching under the banners of academic freedom, Harvard today promotes the cause of the Ku Klux Klan riders of Marxism and Islam. It distributes the hoods and masks of a new Red-Green axis and teaches students to go out and kill whites, zionists and Jews. It promotes black theory, black politics, black supremacy and black rejection of the Enlightenment. It promotes gender politics, race politics, and discrimination on the basis of race and gender in the name of diversity, equity and inclusion. It promotes a multitribe, intersectional politics reaching from black queers to proletarian Islamists, dedicated to the destruction of America, Israel and the West: "During Sunday's broadcast of Fox News Channel's Life, Liberty & Levin, Harvard Law professor emeritus Alan Dershowitz disputed the claim that academic freedom gave Harvard University license to teach antisemitism. 'Just remember the 1950s and southern schools when presidents of universities were saying, all we want to do is teach white supremacy to our students. All we want to do is have Ku Klux Klan people coming in with masks and harassing black students. That's part of our academic freedom. Harvard cannot use academic freedom as an excuse and a justification for teaching antiAmericanism, antisemitism, antizionism. It is a structural problem. It goes deep. The DEI—the diversity, equity and inclusion is antisemitic to its core. Intersectionality, black theory, racial theory, queer theory—they're all part of this attempt to try to promote a world view that is essentially antiAmerican and antisemitic.'
